Cost Increase May 'Kill' St. Clair Job

The State Highway Department's estimate on the St. Clair Ave. project has been raised to $846,780—up nearly a quarter of a million in the last seven months—and the city's share has been revised upward to $423,393. Engineer George S. Bloomgren confirmed in a caucus session with Council Friday night.

Although the actual cost will not be known until contractors' bids are opened Aug. 27, Council agreed unanimously that the revised estimate would place an impossible financial load on the city and the St. Clair project will have to go by the boards after nearly four years of negotiation.

But at least one avenue was left open that could lead to successful consummation of the project as Council adjourned its caucus. The situation is this:

Based on the $600,000 estimate, the city was prepared to contribute about $300,000 as its share—approximately $150,000 in assessments against property-owners and $150,000 in the municipality's own funds.

But the state, advising the administration of the higher estimate and the $423,393 city share, asked that the funds for the municipality's end be put up before the contractors' bids were opened.

The administration now is negotiating with the Highway Department's central office in Columbus for permission to wait until the bids are opened before the city decides whether to proceed. If the bids drop the actual cost down to the $600,000 range again, then the city will put up its money and the project can go ahead. If the project appears too costly from the city's standpoint, the municipality will withdraw and the job will go by the boards.

That's where the question was left when Council adjourned. The state's answer is expected within a few days—not later than the end of next week—Bloomgren said.

When the state's reply is received, city officials will decide how to proceed—if at all.

The meeting brought together Bloomgren and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen, representing the administration; President Charles N. Edwards and Councilmen Kenneth C. Berg, Frank Duffy, Robert W. Sample Jr., George E. Willshaw, S. James Welch and Floyd Murray.

The caucus was arranged Thursday by the street committee, comprised of Berg, chairman, Welch and Murray. Berg said the committee heard unconfirmed reports that the estimate had been revised, but was unable to get definite information. In calling the meeting, the councilmen invited the administration spokesmen to present the latest data from the Highway Department.

Actually, the Highway Department only is acting as agent for the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, which has agreed to pay 50 per cent of the cost of the work. No state money is involved.

The project calls for construction of a new 36-foot reinforced concrete pavement from Princeton Ave., North Side, to the north city limits, including a complete storm drainage system.

Negotiations for the work date back to the time Mayor Bert H. Goodballet assumed office in his first term nearly four years ago. In the first stages, many months were consumed in quiet negotiations to persuade the U.S. agency to add St. Clair to its so-called "federal aid secondary system," making the project eligible for 50 per cent aid.

"I think you realize the administration wants this project finished as much as anyone else," Owen told Council. "I think the mayor will be one of the most disappointed men in Ohio if it is not finished. It has been one of his pet projects."

In bringing Council up to date on developments, Bloomgren explained the facts in chronological order. Here is his explanation:

Last December, the city received an estimate of $604,000 from Glaus, Pyle & Schomer of Youngstown, the consulting engineering firm hired by the city to prepare detailed plans and specifications.

He sent the figure to the Division 11 Highway Department office in New Philadelphia and asked how it compared with state estimates on similar projects. The division office replied that the figure compared favorably with state estimates, based on the quantities of paving and excavation and other factors involved, and that the estimate appeared "safe."

On Monday, July 22, Mayor Goodballet received from the Highway Department office in Philadelphia legislation which it sought to have enacted by Council, placing the city's share of $423,393—one half of the total cost.

Since the figure was $100,000 higher than the city had expected to pay, the mayor and engineer went to the New Philadelphia office and "expressed surprise" in a conference with Earl Nelson, the division engineer.

The division engineer explained that the estimate was put together in the state's central office at Columbus, which generally keeps the figures private until after the contract is let. In that way the contractor does not have "a figure to shoot at" in preparing his bid.

Bloomgren conceded that in revealing the city's share by enactment of legislation in Council, the state would in effect, be giving away the estimate because the contractors would realize it

Bake To Seek Another Term At Wellsville

County Filings Hit 88, Including 2 In Lisbon Board Bids

Earl A. Bake, 419 15th St., a veteran member of the Wellsville Board of Education, has filed with the Columbiana County Board of Elections for another term at the November general election.

Bake, who served about 15 years as president, is in his fifth consecutive four-year term on the board.

Three seats on the Wellsville Board are to be filled this fall. The terms of Richard Grills and Charles Glass also expire.

New filings with the Election Board brought the total of candidates for various offices to 88, according to Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk.

John W. Peterson and Richard D. Kennedy filed for the Lisbon Board of Education while Elizabeth C. Strabley of Salineville filed for another term on the Columbiana County Board of Election.

Earl F. Welch of New Waterford entered the race for mayor, making a total of three candidates for the post.

Others filing were Edward Wilhelm, for trustee of Salem Township; Robert J. Coie, St. Clair Township trustee; Sisilia Humenick of Homeworth R. D. Knox Township clerk; George McPherson, Franklin Township trustee, and John Herman Jr., Salem Board of Education.

The Columbiana Exempted School District filed a resolution asking for a vote on a new 3-mill levy. It will be for five years to provide current expenses.

Crackdown On Mafia Brings Key Arrest

PALESTERMO, Sicily (AP)—Italy's relentless anti-mafia campaign had under lock and key today a suspected professional executioner for the underworld society.

Police disclosed Friday the arrest of Antonio (Little Pigs) Porcelli. They said he was the hired executioner suspected of killing a rival leader in a gang war.

Chester Parade Attracts 7,000

An estimated 7,000 spectators turned out for the annual firemen's parade of the Chester volunteer fire department Friday night, highlight of a week-long celebration at Rock Springs Park. The carnival closes tonight.

Firemen said the crowd was one of the largest ever to see a parade in Chester, with the line of march along Carolina Ave. from 3rd to 6th St. jammed with spectators.

THERE were 72 units in the parade that started under sunny skies at 7:30 and ended an hour and a half later after sudden showers had dampened the crowd and the performers.

The rain began about 8, scattering the crowd, although many remained in their places along the parade route and got drenched.

The rain added to the problems of traffic control officers, and

Adviser To Presidents

Landis Waits Sentencing On Income Tax Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—James M. Landis, adviser to presidents and outspoken critic of unethical practices by heads of government agencies, will be sentenced Aug. 30 on federal charges of not filing income tax returns.

The former Harvard University Law School dean, who headed three federal agencies at various times, pleaded guilty Friday to charges that he had failed to file returns from 1956-60, a period when his income was said to exceed $360,000.

Landis, 63, has paid the government $94,492—three-fourths of it the taxes due and the rest penalties and interest.

He could draw as much as five years in prison.

Death Comes To Dr. Ward, Sex Figure

Overdose Of Drugs Snuffs Out Life Of British Playboy

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Stephen Ward died today, unaware he was convicted on two vice charges in Britain's biggest sex and political scandal of the 20th century.

His life ebbed away at 3:50 p.m. (9:50 a.m. EST) in a flower-filled but guarded room at St. Stephen's Hospital where he was rushed Wednesday suffering from a massive overdose of drugs.

Only death enabled the 50-year-old society osteopath and artist to prevent the law running its full course.

Ward swallowed his fatal overdose Wednesday morning—only a few hours before the final day of his trial resumed.

In his absence, the judge completed his final address and the jury of 11 men and one woman convicted Ward on two of five counts charging this slim and elegant man with operating a high society sex circus.

Only sentencing was deferred until such time as Ward was fit to appear in court.

The jury convicted him of living off the earnings of Mandy Rice-Davies, 18, and Christine Keeler, 21. They were party girls who traveled in high levels of society.

Miss Keeler, long a friend of Ward, testified against him about her liaison with John D. Profumo, who resigned as minister of war because of the scandal. Ward introduced them.

Ward spent his last days in a private hospital room watched night and day by a prison officer. He never recovered consciousness.

Soon after admission, he contracted bronchial pneumonia. Surgeons performed an operation on his throat to aid his breathing. He was aided to the end by a breathing apparatus attached by tubes to the incision in his throat.

Then Friday, his heart weakened. An hour before his death the hospital announced he was "slowly dying."

Only one member of his family was with him when he died—a brother, Peter. Nurses and a doctor were also in the sick room, brightened by blooms of carnations and red roses.

Rusk Heads For Moscow To Sign Pact

Exploratory Talks Also Are Planned With Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home fly to Moscow today for historic nuclear test ban signing ceremonies and vital exploratory talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The foreign policy chiefs were accompanied by parties of top advisers and specialists in East-West relations. Rusk's party also includes a bipartisan delegation of top Senate leaders.

Among the array of international figures expected for the signing ceremonies Monday afternoon will be U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. He has been invited to fly to Moscow to witness the signing.

The ceremonies in the Grand Kremlin Palace will be broadcast over a Soviet-bloc television hook-up and to Western Europe. They will be followed by a lavish reception in the Kremlin at which Khrushchev is expected to preside.

Rusk and Home are expected to meet with Khrushchev for talks on future steps in relaxing cold-war tensions after the signing.

Rusk, as the first American secretary of state to visit Moscow since the late George C. Marshall was here in 1947, has been invited to stay on for a few days as Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's guest.

Khrushchev was reported to be planning to invite Rusk and his wife to visit the premier's Black Sea vacation home. But the U.S. Embassy said it knew nothing of such a plan and that it tentatively had scheduled a sightseeing trip to Leningrad for Wednesday.

The talks are expected to concentrate on the nonaggression pact Khrushchev wants NATO and the Warsaw pact alliances to sign.

French President Charles de Gaulle's refusal to sign such a treaty appeared to doom this project. But President Kennedy and W. Averell Harriman, under-secretary of state for political affairs, who negotiated the test ban, have indicated that a way could be found around the Paris road-block.

Some Western observers here expect Rusk to sound out Khrushchev on the possibility of settling for a formal declaration of non-aggression made independently by both military alliances.

Passes First Turn

Rights Program Makes Progress

By JOHN CHADWICK Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's civil rights program has passed the first turn in the long, winding road toward enactment—completion of lengthy hearings by two congressional committees.

The committees are expected to start writing their bills soon.

The prospect in the House is that the floor battle over civil rights legislation won't be joined until after Labor Day. The outlook in the Senate is even cloudier.

The House Judiciary Committee concluded three months of hearings on the President's seven-point program Friday while the Senate Commerce Committee was winding up five weeks of hearings on one plank—a bill to prohibit racial discrimination in places of public accommodations.

The accommodations section was separated from the rest of the program in the Senate in an effort for quicker action than could be expected from the Senate Judiciary Committee, long the burial ground for civil rights measures. The committee has been holding hearings on the other points with no sign of a wind-up in view.

The public accommodations measure would apply to hotels, motels, theaters, restaurants, retail stores and other privately owned businesses serving the general public and having a substantial effect on interstate commerce.

'Sabotage,' Montevideo Says

30 Killed, 100 Injured In Derailment Of Train

MONTVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—At least 30 persons were killed and more than 100 injured Friday night in a passenger train derailment which the state-owned railroad said was staged by saboteurs.

The three-coach train, carrying 200 passengers, veered onto a siding at 45 miles an hour and smashed into freight cars parked at a fertilizer plant.

Crews worked through the night to rescue passengers trapped in the twisted coaches along the little-used siding in a suburb eight miles from Montevideo.

Juan C. Funes, president of Uruguay's National Railroad, said that "criminal hands forced the lock of the track points system" and held the switch open by placing stones between the rails and the switch lever, shunting the train onto the siding.

Another railroad official said the saboteurs also had placed heavy rocks on the tracks.

Engineer Nestor Martinez said he had seen the switch was pointed the wrong way about 20 yards before the train reached the siding. He said he slammed on the brake but it was too late.

The coaches snapped from the locomotive and were smashed. The engine hurtled into the freight cars.

The siding turned off the main track at a sharp angle. Martinez said freight trains using the siding negotiate the turn at 10 miles an hour.

Bodies were taken to a nearby army barracks and morgues for identification.

Railroad detectives said the sabotage had been planned meticulously but they had no idea who had done it.

The train was on a 60-mile run from Montevideo to Casupa, a small town in Canelones Province.

Asking Own Destruction Cloud States

Communists Snub General's Charges As 'Fabrications'

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—Amid reports of new fighting on the uneasy Korean truce line, the U.N. Command warned today that Communist North Korea must curb its "bloodthirsty marauders" immediately or it will invite its own destruction.

Maj. Gen. George H. Cloud, senior delegate from the U.N. Command on the armistice commission, charged the North Koreans with deliberate, malicious assaults in U.N.-controlled territory which have killed three Americans and wounded a fourth since July 29.

North Korea brushed aside the charges as "fabrications" in one of the hottest exchanges in 10 years of armistice commission meetings.

Earlier Cloud said Communist troops had intruded into the U.N. Command portion of the demilitarized zone at 4:30 a.m. today and fresh firing had broken out between American and Communist troops.

Cloud said the clash had taken place about 500 yards south of the military demarcation line running through the center of the demilitarized zone. He did not elaborate and mentioned no casualties.

An American officer told newsmen outside the armistice meeting that he had thrown eight hand grenades in the latest reported clash. He said an American patrol had been flanked in the fighting and forced to withdraw.

No major casualties were reported on either side. An American soldier was treated for a shrapnel splinter in one hand, but it was believed possible it came from a U.S. grenade.

Cloud, a Marine, said 50 Soviet troops were in the area.

Red Chinese Predict Khrushchev Downfall

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China predicted today that Premier Khrushchev's "betrayal of the Soviet people" in agreeing to a nuclear test-ban treaty will lead to his downfall.

An editorial in the Peking People's Daily, voice of the Chinese Communist party, called the test ban "a U.S.-Soviet alliance against China, pure and simple."

The editorial was broadcast by the New China News Agency and monitored here.

City Autoist Loses Permit

Three Columbiana County drivers, including an East Liverpool area man, lost the right to drive for one year at 12-point traffic hearings Friday before Common Pleas Court Raymond S. Buzzard at Lisbon.

A fourth, whose record included a two-point conviction for driving too slowly, was placed on probation for a year.

The court suspended the licenses of:

Lawrence M. Barborak, 27, of East Liverpool R.D. 1, 14 points, leaving the scene of an accident, driving while intoxicated and speeding.

Gilmer Smith, 46, of Lisbon R.D. 3, 14 points, driving while intoxicated, driving while license was under suspension, and failure to stop in an assured clear distance.

William R. Hill, 63, of Box 75, Salineville, 12 points, two convictions for driving while intoxicated.

Judge Buzzard granted probation to John Robert Mrugala of Salem R.D. 3, on condition that (1) he shall deliver his license to the clerk of courts upon conviction, guilty plea or bond forfeiture on any moving traffic violation within one year from date, at which time his license shall be suspended for one year; (2) he reports to Common Pleas Court any such violation, or be subject to contempt action, and (3) he pays court costs.

Mrugala's record showed convictions at several points over Northern Ohio. He had three two-point convictions for red light violations, two two-pointers for speeding, and another two-pointer for driving too slowly.

LISBON — Two drivers forfeited $10 appearance bonds Friday in mayor's court.

Ruth Ann Cornelli, 50, of Lisbon R.D. 4, was charged by the State Highway Patrol with running through the traffic light on the Public Square, and Mark Joseph Preteroti, 20, of 215 Nelson Ave., Lisbon, was cited for speeding Thursday by Policeman John Vokovich.

Banking Contest Held By Grange At Lisbon

LISBON — The Bates and Crossers monopolized prize money in the Lisbon Grange baking contest feature of Friday night's meeting at the Grange Hall.

Mrs. Eleanor Bates won first prize in the subordinate Grange orange nut bread contest and Mrs. Zada Crosser placed second.

In the Juvenile Grange's chocolate fudge contest, Jimmy Bates, 7, was first and Arlene Crosser second.

Winners receive a small money prize and can enter the Pomona Grange baking contest in two weeks. All contestants throughout the county use the same recipes.

Mrs. Dan Saling and Mrs. John Hull, both of Wayne Township, Columbus, were judges.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Roger W. Tracy has appointed Hugh S. Jenkins, Columbus attorney and former Ohio attorney general, to be assistant state auditor, succeeding Col. Stephen F. O. Mavis. Mavis has returned to government service in Washington.

Jenkins was elected attorney general in 1944 and re-elected in 1946. He was appointed to the Board of Tax Appeals in 1957 and served as its chairman three years.

Alarm Sounds Again

LISBON — The sprinkler system alarm at the Lisbon Salesbook Co. went off without explanation again about 11:30 p.m. Friday. Police called David Jamison, local manager, to shut it off. Police said the plant alarm has gone off four or five times this year, always at night. The sprinklers inside do not come on, but the overflow pipe outside spouts water until the alarm is turned off.

St. Clair

amounted to 50 per cent of the estimate.

Bloomgren asked Nelson why the city's share was 30 to 40 per cent over the original commitment and Nelson replied that he could not answer because the estimates were made up in the central office. However, he cited several instances in which contractors' bids showed the state's estimates were "away high."

The mayor asked if the city could wait until bids were opened before putting up its share. In that way, if the actual cost of the job proved too high, the city could ask the state to drop the project.

Nelson promised to inquire at the central office, asking if the Highway Department would proceed on that basis. As soon as he returned to East Liverpool, the mayor put his request in a formal letter and forwarded it to Nelson. The division engineer was to seek a reply from the central office. That's where the question rests now, with the state's reply expected in a few days.

A $10-a-foot assessment against property-owners would not be affected regardless of the eventual contract price. Council set the $10 figure in legislation approved July 29. It is not tied to the eventual cost, so any further increase in the city's share would have to be made up entirely out of municipal funds.

Several recent major highway jobs have been built well under state estimates. The first stage of the city Freeway was estimated at $3,701,200. The contract price was $3,505,777. The second Freeway stage, now under construction, was estimated at $2,840,700. The contract price is $2,796,405.

Meanwhile, perhaps even before the state's reply is received, a delegation of city officials should seek a conference with heads of the Highway Department to find what caused the sharp jump in the estimate, Council decided.

Council decided to ask Mayor Goodballet to request Nelson to arrange a conference between a local delegation and officials of the Columbus Highway Department office.

When the date and time are set, Council will be advised. Welch Murray and Berg agreed tentatively to attend as Council's representatives. The mayor, the engineer and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper also may make the trip to Columbus if an appointment can be arranged.

Bloomgren said if the plan for the 36 - foot pavement falls through and if Council desires, he will prepare estimates on a 24-foot pavement, beginning at Riverview Cemetery and extending to the north city limits. Councilmen made no direct reply, although most members indicated they feel some sort of improvement will be required.

In response to a question from Murray, Bloomgren said Bureau of Public Roads funds would not be available for the alternate project. But he said the city might obtain funds under the Accelerated Public Works Program, a Congressional plan that provides money for projects in areas with a labor surplus.

State Welfare To Be Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Legislative Service Commission has ordered a broad study of the state welfare program and agreed to consider other studies at a meeting in two weeks.

House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, who became commission chairman at a meeting Friday, said other studies proposed by members include local police and fire pension funds, the Highway Patrol pension fund, the Ohio tuberculosis program, judicial administration in the state, Blue Cross rates and reciprocity with other states on motor carrier taxes.

An actuarial study also will be made in order for the legislature to implement the $250 million bond issue proposal if it receives voter approval in the November election.

In taking over as chairman, Cloud succeeded Senate Majority leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, for two years under a House and Senate rotation amendment. Frank W. King, D-Lucas, became vice chairman.

The commission is the fact-finding arm of the General Assembly.

1 Killed, 2 Hurt When Cars Ram

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—An automobile clipped the rear of an Ohio Highway Patrol car and careened head-on into an oncoming auto Friday night, resulting in one death and two injuries.

The patrol said Ronald M. Swartz, 26, of Loudonville was killed when the eastbound car which had hit the state vehicle collided with Swartz's westbound auto.

According to the patrol report, Patrolman D. W. Fryberger, 24, of the Ravenna post was going east on Ohio 5 east of here when he started a left turn. A car driven by Cortez Gauntt, 30, of Warren hit the left rear of the cruiser and veered into the opposite lane and the head-on crash.

Gauntt and Swartz' passenger, Sandra Plues, 20, of Stow were injured. Patrolman Fryberger was unhurt.

Newell IOOF Lodge Discusses Activities

Reports on activities planned this fall were presented when Newell Odd Fellows Lodge 447 met Friday night in the IOOF Hall.

Al Thornberry served as noble grand, and John Addis, vice grand. The turnout was small due to the Chester firemen's parade.

Following business, the Clark 447 Club met to hear reports on fund-raising projects. An auxiliary of the lodge, the club operated a duck stand in the Newell firemen's carnival last week. Addis is president.

Man Faces Charges For Death Of Woman

POMEROY, Ohio (AP)—Manslaughter charges have been filed against Clarence O. Freeman of Pomerooy in the death of a 58-year-old mother of 10 children.

Mrs. Aurelia Bing was found dead in her home Friday. Authorities said she suffered a hemorrhage as a result of a beating administered by Freeman eight days previously. Freeman was living in Mrs. Bing's home.

Between $20 And $30 Taken At Hanoverton

HANOVERTON — Burglars got $20 to $30 in silver Friday night at the George Ziegler tire service building on Route 9 north.

Ziegler, who resides just north of the workshop, discovered the theft this morning and notified the sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriff James Gause said the thieves first broke into a storage shed and got tire irons to use on the shop doors. They jimmied two doors unsuccessfully before breaking open a third. They ransacked office files and took the money from an open safe.

Airman Reassigned

Milk Drivers End Strike In Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH — A strike of milk truck drivers and dairy workers in an eight-county area of southwestern Pennsylvania ended Friday night when employees approved new two-year contracts with 41 companies by a vote of 1,193 to 87.

Some 3,000 workers, members of Local 205 of the Milk & Ice Cream Salesmen, Drivers and Plant Employees, had been working since May 1 without a new contract.

They didn't strike until last Monday after lengthy negotiations with the Greater Pittsburgh Milk Dealers Association failed to produce a new pact.

President Harry Tevis of Local 205 said terms of the new contract include:

Wage increases retroactive to May 1, with about 1,800 plant workers to receive immediate wage increases of five cents an hour, five more cents on Nov. 1 and an additional 10 cents on May 1, 1964.

Commissions of retail drivers to be increased by $1.40 on each 1,000 quarts sold. Wholesale drivers' commissions go up 55 cents on each hundred units immediately and increase another 55 cents on May 1, 1964.

Companies to find other work for employees whose jobs are eliminated by automation, except in cases of normal attrition.

Korea

made cartridge cases had been found at the scene along with an unexploded Soviet-type grenade. Two hand grenades exploded, he said.

The U.N. side called the armistice commission meeting to accuse the Communists of a series of provocations that began July 29 when a U.N. jeep was ambushed in U.N. territory. Two Americans were killed and a third wounded.

The next day a fourth American soldier and a South Korean policeman were killed in a clash directly south of the first ambush. Four North Korean soldiers were slain in this encounter.

Cloud called the incidents a Communist "route of terror and bloodshed."

He warned: "If it is not your side's intention to destroy itself, I demand that you take the following actions without delay:

"1. Prevent your bloodthirsty marauders from entering our portion of the DMZ demilitarized zone; and the territory under the control of our side.

"2. Take immediate steps to keep your murdering bandits under control and on your side of the military demarcation line.

"3. Punish severely all those killers of your side who participated in these intrusions, ambushes and murders.

"4. Punish those leaders of your side who planned and ordered such bestial, unprovoked actions.

"5. Begin complying with every provision of the armistice agreement which your side has so flagrantly violated for over 10 years.

"The patience of the people of Korea, the U.N. Command and the world is not without limits. I demand that your side provide positive assurances that these provocations will cease and that your side will begin to comply with the armistice agreement," signed July 27, 1953.

Gen. Chong Hwang Chang, the North Korean delegate, said his side had investigated the charges, which he called "fabrications."

City Woman Honored As Crucible Retiree

Miss Mildred Rose, 1322 Riverview St., who retired recently from the Crucible Steel Co., was honored at a dinner Wednesday at the Willows Motel in Industry.

About 30 attended. Miss Rose retired July 1 after 19 years service. She worked in the general accounting division at the Midland Works.

She is a member of the First Christian Church of East Liverpool and teaches the adult Sunday School Class. She is president of the CWF of the church and is a member of the New Century Literary Club.

Fellow workers presented Miss Rose with gifts and an orchid corsage.

Parade

plause for its "swing step" style, while the new Oak Glen High School Band also gave a demonstration of snappy marching and rhythm. Weir High was not at full strength, due to tonight's All-Star Centennial football game in Weirton, officials said.

ANOTHER MUSICAL unit not in competition was the Rebels drum and bugle corps, sponsored by the Chester fire department.

Winners in the drill team category were Jack & Jills of Penn Hills, first; Jane-Ettes of East Palestine and the Ronnie Boston Sweethearts of East Liverpool, tie for second, and the Vi-Lar Kaddettes of East Liverpool, third.

The patrol of Osiris Shrine Temple of Wheeling won first prize in the senior drill team division. There were more than 100 in the Shriners marching group.

The Northern Panhandle Shrine Club entered a float.

In the comedy division, the Fort McIntosh Indians of Monaca won first, and Beverly Hillbillies of the Chester High Play-ground Association was second.

Liverpool Township East volunteer fire department won first prize in competition for "best pumper" among fire apparatus units. Negley was second, and Pughtown third.

PATTERSON Township, Monaca and Salsville were winners in the best emergency car competition.

The Grant District Burial Squad led the parade through the city, followed by State Police, Sheriff Joseph H. Manyennep, Chester city officials, and three queens from Chester High School.

Chester VFW Post 6450 decorated utility poles along the parade route with colorful bunting.

Golf, Water Sports

To Occupy President

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy settled today into a summertime swing of golf and water sports at picture-que Cape Cod.

He didn't wait long to get started on a few holes of golf after flying up from Washington Friday, even though a heavy rainstorm had just swept the area.

The first transcontinental mail stagecoach through Guadalupe Pass, Tex., traveled in 1857.

8 Arrested By Raiders At Weirton Club

WEIRTON — Weirton Police raided the Owls Club on Weirton Heights early this morning, made eight arrests and confiscated about $1,500 in gaming equipment.

The club was also raided last month by Hancock County sheriff's deputies.

Chief Ed Frankovitch and several officers entered the club at 1:27 this morning and filed charges on sight violations.

Tony Leon, 46, is charged with exhibiting and permitting gaming devices on the premises, while James H. Hanna, 32, is charged with operating a gaming table. Both are Weirton residents and former employees in the assessor's office in the Hancock County Courthouse.

Cited on charges of gaming, according to police, are Sam J. Magnone, Milan Bakich, Spero G. Phomaret and Nick C. Angelo, all of Weirton, John Lucas of Pittsburgh and John Paris of New Cumberland.

Leon and Hanna posted $300 property bonds, and the others $250 bonds to await hearings in Municipal Court Aug. 7.

Add vanilla to cool sugar syrup and use to sweeten fresh fruit cups for delectable flavor. The vanilla is particularly delicious with fresh peaches — pared and sliced.

An Explanation Is In Order

Word that the long-needed St. Clair Ave. improvement may go by the boards because of a sharp boost in the estimated cost of the project is both disheartening and frustrating.

If ever a project is needed, it is that calling for the new stretch of roadway to replace the present gutted thoroughfare which is a disgrace to the city.

Now, just when several years of negotiations appeared about to bear fruit, the whole thing threatens to blow up in our faces as the result of the State Highway Department's announcement that the figures for the work have been boosted to $846,780. This raises the city's share to $423,393, compared with an earlier estimate of $300,000. As councilmen pointed out at Friday night's special meeting, this appears to make the cost of the project prohibitive.

There's still a glimmer of hope, however, in that bids on the work may drop the costs again.

Meanwhile, plans are under way for a local delegation to confer with officials of the Highway Department at Columbus on the shocking development. Such a meeting is imperative. The city of East Liverpool is entitled to a clearcut explanation as to why the estimated cost of the project should skyrocket so in the last seven months.

If the Highway Department explanation appears unsatisfactory, the matter should be carried to the desk of Gov. James Rhodes. The present St. Clair Ave. program is too important to East Liverpool's future to be shelved without a real fight.

What Happened To Motivation?

The next point that needs stressing in the effort to keep teen-agers in school is a substitute for the missing motivation tempting them to drop out of school.

Nothing will be gained if a few hundred thousand teen-agers are persuaded to stay in school just to keep their names off the unemployment list. They will not have improved their chances of finding jobs unless they do something in school besides mark time.

President Kennedy is urging them to stay in school. Every educator, every employer, every person who has given thought to the problem is urging them to stay in school. But what is forcing them to drop out of school, with so much good advice being brought to bear for keeping them in school? Why don't they want to stay?

EXCEPT FOR THOSE who drop out because they are incapable of absorbing education, lack of motivation causes teen-age dropouts. They are unable to think of any reason for staying in school.

They see nothing to be gained by going through the motions of doing something they are not interested in doing. They are not trying to prove anything to themselves, to their families and to their friends. They don't want to learn.

They have given up on themselves and their generation.

Why? This is not the first teen-age generation to have problems. Teen-agers during the long years of the Great Depression needed jobs, too. But if they could afford it, they went to school.

Teen-agers had problems during World War II when military service interfered with their schooling. But they didn't give up. They flocked to take advantage of additional schooling offered by the government.

THERE IS MORE involved in the teen-age surrender to problems that once were surmounted than the nature of the problems. They are essentially the same ones young persons always have faced—finding useful things to do in a world that is in no mood to move over to make room for them.

Give Government A Chance!

A modern-day Lord Bryce commenting on the "American commonwealth" might ask in anguish why Americans expect government to mind their own business.

The railroad deadlock is an example of unreasonableness.

All the non-government parties involved are willing, even eager, to foist on a confused and fumbling congress a problem they have made insoluble with their own intransigence.

If every member of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives were equipped with the wisdom of Solomon and the patience of Job, the problem still would be hopeless.

Yet, not only the legislators but the Kennedy administration will be held responsible for coming up with answers to questions the parties concerned have been unable to answer.

The best day it ever had, the U.S. government was not inspired enough to cope with the dilemma of the railroads' work rules dispute. There never has been an industrial deadlock the government was able to break with an inspired solution.

Far from being inspired, its solutions always are grimly expedient; nothing else can be expected. Yet when they turn out to be that way, government is jumped on by everybody displeased with the outcome.

It is as though the great American custom of bating the umpire had been broadened into shifting to Uncle Sam the blame for our inability to get along with one another, then had added insult to injury by accusing him of nibbling into places where he didn't belong.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

I am indebted to David Dietz, science writer, for the latest estimate of the value of the chemicals in a human body—$1. This does not include gold teeth, silver plates and pins and deposits of minerals that have entered the body through continued dosage. Even with those thrown in, a man wouldn't bring more than $1.50 on a trade-in, in case you feel conceted.

It was my misfortune to flunk chemistry at the outset of a premedics course; otherwise the world might have had another doctor. Or it might also have had another veterinarian, which is a roundabout way of saying this is Veterinary Medicine Week.

No one declares within my hearing range that the Supreme Court has excluded religion from public schools without being corrected. The Supreme Court has ruled that no politician can prescribe a religious exercise for an American kid, and with this I am in full agreement, as everybody else should be.

People heard much about the Passamaquoddy Bay tidal power scheme, promoted by Franklin D. Roosevelt, but I never knew until its revival recently that in 1935 Roosevelt caused a seven-million-dollar "village" to be built with public funds for construction workers, who still haven't shown up.

Commies are great ones for celebrating anniversaries—the Cuban Commies by seizing the U.S. embassy in Havana on the 10th anniversary of the July 26 uprising and the Korean Commies by shooting U.S. soldiers on the 10th anniversary of the truce, also signed July 26, 1953.

You can't tell the allies and the enemies without a program. Pravda accuses France and Red China of chumming up together. Those of us who never got used to the idea of being allied with Germany, Japan and Italy, our former enemies, now may have to learn to hate France in order to accommodate our new pal, Russia.

I have found out only recently, having lived in a region free of poisonous snakes, that a copperhead—not the political turncoat variety but the reptile—gives away its presence by a strong odor.

In the struggle between liberals and conservatives, I prefer to take my stand always on the same basis. Who wants to be liberal with my money and who wants to help me conserve some of it for my own use? I am against all people who want to be liberal with my dough, some of whom call themselves conservatives.

In the event you never thought of it, something else to shiver and shake about is the fact this great good country never has fired a missile with a nuclear warhead and has no more idea than a rabbit whether it would work—and no way to find out if nuclear testing in the atmosphere is banned.

One of our dogs watched television closely during a Brinkley documentary on Paraguay, which we thought was remarkable because the mutt doesn't know where Paraguay is.

Tantrums Should Be Nipped In Bud

Castro Apparatus Eyes The Indians

By Victor Riesel

A windowless mud hut, reeking of men and women and children and their cattle, oftentimes huddled together for warmth as the razor-edged wind and rain and hail come sweeping in from Bolivia and Lake Titicaca, is as grim and bleak as the night side of the moon. There are tens of thousands of these aboriginal "homes." And each is a target for the Castro intercontinental apparatus.

Victor Riesel

In Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia there are 8 million such Indians—a mighty target indeed. They know no more about Communism than they do about the Wimbledon Tennis matches. But they are listening to the promises of the Castro floating units here—and the Quechua and Aymara Indians are willing to live on promises. They have little else and nothing to lose.

These Indians live outside the money economy. They eat meat once a year if they are lucky. Experts here tell me they have a life expectancy ranging between 25 and 35 years of age. They live mostly on potatoes the size of a big strawberry. And this is 80 per cent of their diet.

They kill their appetite by chewing coca leaves, the base for cocaine. An adult Indian chews enough each day to kill a dog. There are records of experiments to prove this. Thus they work 12 and 14 hours a day on the bleak soil without actually realizing the passage of time.

THIS KILLS their spirit and half kills them. When some are lucky enough to land jobs on the haciendas, they insist on getting part of their pay in coca leaves.

They are clad in a combination of trousers, vest and poncho overall—and do not remove these garments until the "clothing" falls apart.

Very few of them identify with their native land. They know only their own community and their own people. But the time will come, as in Bolivia where they gyrate to the mines, when they will insist on voting for their own destiny. To whom will they then—these eight million—swing their support?

It's fascinating to look at nearby Bolivia. There the Indians back a bellicose chap by the name of Juan Lechin.

He is head of the miners federation, leader of the central labor movement, vice president of the country and an ambassador all at the same time.

Furthermore, the Bolivian unions which he dominates have a people's militia of their own. It is disciplined and heavily armed.

Senor Lechin is not a Communist. But he is left of center and with the workers' militia as a base could take over the country in a showdown fight, it's believed here.

THE BASIS of his strength is among the Indians. In Bolivia there is no literacy requirement for voting. The political parties are identified by colors and each voter casts his ballot by associating the hue with the party of his choice.

Here in Peru, literacy is a prerequisite for voting. So the Indians are not yet a factor. But they will be. More and more of their youngsters make their way into the more urban centers.

And those who remain on the "altiplano" are being wooed by Castro's new agents. They are not yet sufficiently numerous to make trouble but their tribe is increasing.

But for some time now the Indians have been receiving aid and guidance from a group of outsiders ranging from the International Labor Organization (ILO) to the Society of Friends and the AFL-CIO.

It was discovered that the basic yearning of an Indian—as indeed the desire of all people—is for a home of his own, tiny as it might be. So the ILO moved into this general area around Lake Titicaca.

Its people began teaching the Indians how to bake bricks. And then how to make a small house. And that windows were necessary. And how to make frames for such windows. Gradually the male Indians learned how to construct a small building.

THEIR NEW talents were then turned towards the construction of small shops and schools, for which the government began supplying teachers.

The shops and tiny factories began producing goods for exchange with other communities. A money economy developed. Transportation followed.

The Indians were taught how to raise crops. Soon a credit system was established.

This is known as the Andean Indian Program. It covers but a few of the 8 million Indians. In three very dense areas on Lake Titicaca's shores, this work has affected well over 100,000 of them.

In all, some 200 communities have been reached, but this is only the beginning. Meanwhile on the labor front, the middle-of-the-road National Federation of Peasant Workers (FENCAP) and the Peruvian Christian Trade Union Movement (MOSICP) are being harrassed by the Fidelistas.

All this is far off from the United States but there are jagged mountains, high plains and jungles—and many ambitious young men, all of whom want to use the hardy terrain as the base from which to become new Castros.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

We, members of Bricklayers, Local 10, would like to know why so many of our local merchants, chain stores, professional men and occasionally a local contractor, will hire skilled mechanics, such as bricklayers and other tradesmen, from out of our local vicinity, when we feel our mechanics are as good as you can find anywhere.

Many of our men are driving 70 to 80 miles a day to work. They are forced to live away from their homes and families. We have men of the same trades driving here from Youngstown, Pittsburgh and other distant places.

Our Chamber of Commerce, merchants and the general public advise us to "Buy in our Home Town and keep our money here." We feel that this slogan should apply to our local tradesmen as well.

In other areas, school boards, architects, businessmen, merchants and professional men will specify that local help be hired as long as it is available. We feel that if this practice was observed in our area, it would be a big boost to our local tradesmen.

Directive Questioned

By David Lawrence

Racial Order To Services Hit by Stennis

It seems incredible that, with all the denunciation that Americans have heaped on the Soviets for indoctrinating their troops with the social and political ideas of Communism, the people of the United States should be reading this week in their newspapers about speeches in the halls of Congress alleging that the Kennedy administration is trying to use the armed services to propagate its doctrines of social reform. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., is a high-ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and chairman of its preparedness investigating subcommittee.

In a speech to the Senate on Wednesday, he cited the directive which has been issued by the secretary of defense ordering commanders at military bases to declare "off limits" any businesses or areas where any racial discrimination may occur. The senator said in his speech: "It is now proposed that the military profession itself be utilized as a driving force in the establishment of a new social and political order which involves race relations and individual associations in off-base areas surrounding our military establishments. . . .

"This new and previously unheard-of mission is designed to shape our military force as an instrument for social reform and can only result in irreparable injury to the military profession. "In addition, it is a grave and serious challenge to the long-established and traditional concept of complete separation of the military from all political matters and activities. . . .

"PARAGRAPH C (of the directive) places clear and heavy responsibility upon the military commander in the field of social reform. It provides: "Every military commander has the responsibility to oppose discriminatory practices affecting his men and their dependents and to foster equal opportunity for them, not only in areas under his immediate control, but also in nearby communities where they may live or gather in off-duty hours. . . .

Not long ago, the secretary of defense had to revise an Air Force directive which was construed as encouraging soldiers when out of uniform to participate in racial "demonstrations." It's not yet clear how much of the Defense Department's influence still remains a factor in the activities of soldiers off duty who are in sympathy with the "demonstrations."

Sen. Stennis not only calls attention to the economic coercion involved in using military commanders to determine what places of business shall be patronized but he says the new directive brings into play the factor of influence in promotions.

Sen. Stennis declared that the new directive "will affect the promotion and career advancement of officers affected" and that he could not conceive of any step "which would be more destructive of officer morale."

HE QUOTED from a presidential commission's report which proposed that officers "showing initiative and achievement" in this activity "will enhance their performance ratings and obtain favorable consideration for promotion and career advancement."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., joined with other senators on Wednesday in denouncing the directive.

He recommended that the Senate Armed Services Committee conduct an investigation of the Pentagon committee which, he said, had gone to military bases around the country "with complete dossiers on every businessman" in the surrounding communities, including "every figure the committee can get out of income-tax returns" filed with the Internal Revenue Service. He declared:

"I think this goes much further than what we are talking about here today; namely, the threat of a military takeover should things change in this country and we find that the military commanders have become used to running politics and the social life of the community—I do not care where it is. It goes further than a discussion of the civil rights question."

"MILITARISM is a term used to refer to military men who usurp power to control civilians, but there seems to be no word except possibly "politics" to define efforts by civilians to use the military to carry on social-reform programs.

Sen. Stennis said: "This may only be the beginning. If political activity is condoned and encouraged in this field, the president some day may not be able to extricate the military from other political activity that could follow."

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., on the same day denounced an order by which the federal government will withdraw contracts for the Civil Defense Adult Education Program if a state doesn't sign on the dotted line an agreement against "discrimination." He declared that "what can't be done by the law and under the law is done by executive order or by departmental directive."

Rep. Hebert is chairman of a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee which has been holding extended hearings on a Civil Defense fallout shelter program. He declared that his statement concerning executive usurpation was based on principles underlying governmental operation and not on the merits of the discrimination problem itself. He added:

"I have a deep conviction that the very integrity of the Congress is involved here. And this integrity is being constantly compromised by what I consider capricious and unwarranted assumptions of legislative power by the executive branch."

Japs Import Atmosphere

By Stuart Griffin

TOKYO

What with one thing and another — mainly lack of cash — only a handful of Japanese travel abroad. Statistics indicate that not more than one in 10,000 Japanese will ever leave his native shores.

To make up for missed travel opportunities, Japan's increasingly cosmopolitan people — there were 93.5 million at last count — import foreign atmosphere to their homeland.

They buy foreign products, eat foreign foods and flock to performances by top-flight foreign entertainers. Western clothing, hair styles, cosmetics, apartment houses and weekend outings have become a regular part of life in Japan.

Take foods, for instance. The cuisines of Korea, France, China, Italy and other nations attract the Japanese masses as well as its high society. Salaried men can be found daily lunching at spots with these unlikely (for the Far East) names: The West End, Balalalika, Moi et Toi, Italian Gardens, Alaska, Golden Horn, Gallagher's and The Gas Light.

Housewives chat over cocktails at Bon Soir, Baby Doll, The Sphinx and Harry's Bar. Students listen to jazz and classical music at The Blue Note, Dinty's, Degas, Exodus and Jazz Messenger. Night people patronize such clubs and dance halls as The Crown, Metropole, Cotton Club and Moulin Rouge.

It seems to be a case in Japan of trying to duplicate "abroad" at home.

Here are a few of the more extreme examples:

▲ A coastal ship, fitted out like a trans-Atlantic liner, plies the near-shore route from Yokohama to Kobe. Its attractions include shuffleboard, deck chairs and the Captain's dinner. It is always packed.

The one surviving pre-war passenger ship, the Hikawa Maru, has been converted into a restaurant and youth hostel.

An off-Ginza St. bar is decorated to resemble a jet airliner. Customers are strapped to bar stools, periodic "No Smoking" signs flash, inter-com announcements are made. "Boarding Passes" are issued, and the waitresses are called "flight stewardesses."

To get back to foods, such exotic fare as lox, smorgasbord, fish 'n chips, tortillas and rare steaks are de trop. Drinks run the range from hot toddies to tequila and martinis to zombies. The people are developing a fondness for scotch and bourbon that rivals their delight in traditional Japanese sake.

The rush to buy status symbol foreign products has Japanese authorities worried. Import liberalization has put imports in competition with domestic goods.

Landis

before U.S. Dist. Court Judge Edward C. McLean. McLean released Landis in his own custody on guilty pleas to each count.

In a statement read to the court, Landis' attorney, William Warren, dean of the Columbia University Law School, said his client had become so engrossed in public affairs he never got around to filing tax returns for the five years until after the IRS prompted him.

Landis has headed the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, and the wartime Office of Civilian Defense. He also was a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

His last government post was as adviser to President Kennedy on government regulatory agencies. Landis resigned Sept. 7, 1961, the day he was named correspondent in a Washington divorce suit, later dropped. Adultery allegations against Landis were never substantiated.

Deaths and Funerals

Death Claims Potter At 56

James O. Duffy, 415 W. Drury Ln., an employee of the Homer Laughlin China Co., died this morning at 4:30 at City Hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was 56.

Mr. Duffy was born Oct. 13, 1906, in Coshocton to the late James C. Duffy and Maude Hennehan Duffy, and resided here virtually his lifetime. He was a warehouseman at the pottery and worked last about three weeks ago. He was a member of the First Church of Christ, the Elks Lodge and IBOP Local 86.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Irene Pickering Duffy at home, and a sister, Mrs. Helen Moore of Chester.

Services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Dawson Funeral Home by John N. Mostoller, minister. Burial will be in Columbiana County Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday.

George Vohar

Services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at the church by Rev. John P. Gido. Burial will be in Beaver Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Schwerha Funeral Home in Midland after 7 tonight.

Rev. Edward Grabau

EAST PALESTINE — The Rev. Edward A. Grabau, 84, pastor emeritus of the Ohio District of American Lutheran Churches, died at 3 a. m. today at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Carl Duwe, 429 N. Walnut St.

Rev. Grabau served principally at St. Peter's Lutheran Church at Walmore, N. Y. He was there 43 years and had resided in East Palestine since 1932. His daughter, the lone local survivor, is the wife of Rev. Duwe, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church.

Friends may call Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 8:30 p. m. at the VanDyke Funeral Home. A memorial service will be held at 8:30.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the church in Walmore with burial in the church cemetery.

6 Lose Their Lives In Colorado Wreck

GEORGETOWN, Colo. (AP)—A head-on collision of a station wagon and a pickup truck on a rain-slickened, narrow canyon highway Friday killed six of the seven persons in the two vehicles.

State patrolmen said the truck driver, Paul A. Graziade, 21, of Boulder, Colo., riding alone, lost control while passing three cars on two-lane U.S. 6, about 54 miles west of Denver.

The truck skidded broadside and slammed into the oncoming station wagon driven by William G. Felix, 46, Lafayette, Colo.

Rescuers worked three hours freeing the bodies and the lone survivor, Gene Dain Fraley, 16, Lafayette, from the crumpled station wagon. Graziade's truck plunged over a 15-foot embankment and landed in its tip.

Besides the drivers, others who died were Felix' wife, Margaret, 14; their son, William G. Felix Jr., 6; Mrs. Felix' father, Floyd T. Blankenship, 72, also Lafayette and Marry Merritt, Decatur, Ill., who was visiting the Felix family.

The average American walks about 65,000 miles during his lifetime, the American Podiatry Association estimates.

Hearty Bean Salad Supplies Nourishment

The rugged activity of summer outings — a day at the beach or an afternoon tramping in the woods — calls for food as nourishing and hearty as chuck wagon chow.

Prepare Hearty Bean Salad the night before the outing. Just before the trip, it can be packed in an ice chest. Hard-cooked eggs and grated cheese, wrapped separately in aluminum foil packages are the last minute touches at serving time.

Hearty Bean Salad

1 can (1 pound) kidney beans, drained
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped dill pickles
1/4 cup minced onion
2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 tablespoon apple cider vinegar

1/2 teaspoon salt

Dash pepper

2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, chilled

Grated American cheese

Combine all ingredients except eggs and cheese; chill 3 to 4 hours. Fold in eggs. Serve on lettuce leaves; garnish with grated cheese. Makes 4 servings.

Minor Party Stirs Beaver Political Pool

BEAVER — Beaver County's "political pond," serene since the May primary, had a few ripples on its surface today after representatives of a minor party filed an action-in-equity against several incumbent Democratic Court-house officials who are candidates for Nov. 5.

Andrew Bechac of Ambridge and John Wright of Ellwood City, members of the Constitutional Assembly Party, which also has a couple of aspirants on the fall ballot, named Commissioners Eli Corak and James E. Ross, James F. Tress, controller, Russell Milness, recorder of deeds, and others as defendants in the suit over allowances for county travel expenses.

Bechac and Wright said commissioners receive $150 per month for in-county expenses, Tress, $123 a month, and Milness, 8 cents per mile, and that "there is no authority by law for such use of funds, and expense vouchers have not been filed for either in-county or out-county travel."

They asked court to stop the lump-sum payments of these expenses, that an auditor be named to check the records and that an order be issued for return of the money — charged at full amount.

In response to the charge, Tress said that the "expense allowances were installed in the 1940's by commissioners, and at present there are 49 officials and employees receiving allowances totaling $4,625 per month. He said they average about $100 per month, and that all use their own cars."

Among those receiving expense allowances are the district attorney's office, sheriff's department, field tax assessor, Welfare Board members, surplus food administrator, coroner, TB nurse and others.

How Can I? By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What is the best way to paint asbestos - covered heating pipes?

A. Size the asbestos before painting, or it will soak up all your paint. A good sizing to which any kind of paint will adhere is made by soaking one-half pound of sizing glue in a gallon of water overnight, and then melting it over a fire. When the glue has melted, stir in about two cups of flour for each gallon of glue to form a paste, and apply with a brush. After about 48 hours, your pipes can be nicely painted.

Q. How can I add new life to some of my costume jewelry?

A. Try soaking it for an hour in hot water and ammonia (half and half). Dry well, then glory in the renewed sparkle of your jewelry.

Q. How can I make a better job of painting a plastered wall surface?

A. A good sizing applied to the wall first will insure a good paint job later. This sizing is for the purpose of sealing up the pores in the plaster, and you can obtain it from any good paint dealer. Or, a coat of first-class interior (tung oil varnish, thinned with turpentine, and colored with a little of your wall paint, will also serve the purpose.

Q. How can I keep my kitchen aluminumware shiny?

A. Aluminum will discolor if cleaned with harsh soaps or powders. Instead, use a cloth moistened with lemon juice, rinse with clear water, dry thoroughly, and your aluminum will really brighten up.

Block Of Wellsville Street To Be One-Way

Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare of Wellsville today said that the one-block section of Broadway between 3rd and 4th St. will be made one-way until the Ohio Valley Gas Co. completes repairs on a line.

The excavation makes it dangerous for two lanes of traffic. The excavation is well lighted and barricaded, but it will be less hazardous if one-way traffic is permitted, he said.

The utility will erect a barricade at the intersection of 3rd and Broadway, so traffic can not turn off Route 7.

Only east-bound traffic will be allowed to use the street until the project is finished, the director said.

Green Sunset

ISCHIA, Italy (AP) — This vacation island off the Bay of Naples boasts an unusual attraction — the green sunset. At places along the island's north coast the growth of undersea plants and the color of the water cause an illusion at some seasons of the year when the sunset has shades of green instead of the usual red or orange.

Arlene Whips Up A Storm; Damage Low

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane

Arlene, the first of the season, whipped the tropical Atlantic with winds of 100 miles an hour today, but caused little damage.

She was 925 miles east-southeast of San Juan, P.R., a safe distance from densely inhabited islands and heavily traveled shipping lanes.

One small craft reported itself in trouble north of Puerto Rico, but at last check she was being escorted to port by a Coast Guard vessel.

At dawn, the Weather Bureau said Arlene was moving west-northwest at 12 m.p.h.

Winds up to 100 miles per hour whirled around a small area near the center and gale force winds extended 175 miles in the northern semicircle and 75 miles in the southern semicircle.

"Little change in size or intensity of the storm is expected during the next 12 to 24 hours," the Weather Bureau said.

Hurricane hunter planes flew into the vortex of the storm from Puerto Rico and continued observations at close range throughout the night.

The storm was days away from the United States and forecasters said it was too early to speculate on whether it would ever strike land.

At places along the island's north coast the growth of undersea plants and the color of the water cause an illusion at some seasons of the year when the sunset has shades of green instead of the usual red or orange.

Weekend Series Awaited

Hollow Rock Missionary Program Will Be Friday

Five evangelists will be featured during Missionary Day observance Friday at the 126th annual camp meeting at the Hollow Rock Campgrounds on Route 213, about 12 miles from East Liverpool. Services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m., and 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

THE EVANGELISTS include the Rev. Elmer Kilbourne, affiliated under the Oriental Missionary Society, who will tell of the reconstruction of the Korean Church.

The Rev. James C. Lentz, whose headquarters are in Marion, Ind. He is director of Home-land Ministries, radio director and missionary evangelist of the World Gospel Mission, an inter-denominational missionary organization, serving in 15 fields.

The Rev. David Kellogg, missionary to Kenya, Africa, who has ministered in the churches of the Kipsigis Tribe in the Chepteye area. He is with the World Gospel Mission.

DR. ERNEST Steury who is serving with the World Gospel Mission. He has worked with medical missionaries in Kenya. He and his wife and daughter plan to return to the mission fields in the near future.

Serving under the Oriental Missionary Society, the Rev. Charles Eljker recently returned from Brazil. He has served among the Caiu Indians and thousands of Japanese colonists.

Mrs. Mamie Headland is children's leader and Prof. Marvin G. Dean of Upland, Ind., is again serving as music director.

Speakers for the first of the weekend services since the camp meeting series opened Thursday include three other evangelists and missionary workers.

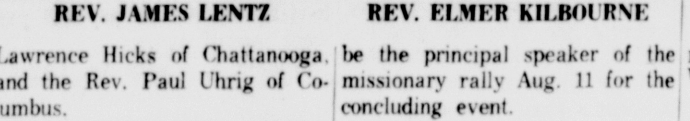

DR. JOHN R. Church of Winston-Salem, N. C., gave the sermon this morning and is to speak tonight at 7:30, and speakers this afternoon were to include Dr.

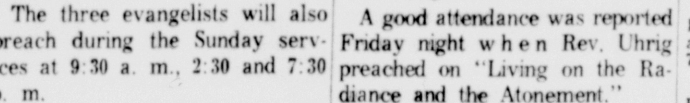

MRS. MAMIE HEADLAND

REV. DAVID KELLOGG

REV. JAMES LENTZ

REV. ELMER KILBOURNE

Lawrence Hicks of Chattanooga, and the Rev. Paul Uhrig of Columbus.

The three evangelists will also preach during the Sunday services at 9:30 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Dr. William Gillam, vice president of the Oriental Missionary Society, will arrive next week to be the principal speaker of the missionary rally Aug. 11 for the concluding event.

A good attendance was reported Friday night when Rev. Uhrig preached on "Living on the Radiance and the Atonement."

An overflow of teen-agers are attending the services, the association said.

CAMPERS are to bring Bible, pencil, bedding, tooth brush, tooth paste, comb, soap, towels, sweater, coat, pajamas and Crusader handbook.

The girls will be permitted to wear slacks during the recreation periods. The proper attire will be dresses, skirts and blouses.

The boys are to wear trousers and shirts at all times and T-shirts meet the requirement. Clothes are to be marked with identification labels.

Parents and guests will be welcomed Friday when Guest Night will be observed.

SENIOR YOUTH Camp of the conference will be held Aug. 5-10 at the Butler District campgrounds in Apollo.

Rev. R. L. Page of East Liverpool, Pittsburgh - Butler District superintendent, and the Rev. S. H. Estel, pastor of the Oakland church, will serve as teachers at the camp. The Rev. Charles Little of the First church will be one of the camp workers.

Old Lisbon Document Displayed In Museum

LISBON — Now on display in the Lisbon Historical Society's Old Stone House Museum is its oldest record from the files at the Court-house and turned over to the society by Clerk of Courts Carl L. Stacey.

He said six or eight handwritten pages fell out of a big record book, one of many destined for destruction because they are no longer of use.

The pages, apparently from an old notebook, list names of members of the local militia from 1763 to about 1815 including Lewis Kinney, Lisbon's founder, along with Fisher Blockson and other early settlers.

The museum is open for visitors Friday afternoons and evenings and Sunday afternoons through September. Open every day during Morgan's Raid Centennial last week, it drew an average of 400 visitors daily.

More than 15 million pounds of soft latex foam rubber went into pillow production in 1962.

New Trial Refused In Barber Shop Case

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Judge Reynold C. Hoeflin has denied a retrial request for 17 Antioch College Students arrested at Lewis Gegner's barber shop in Yellow Springs. The judge said the students will be sentenced Monday on charges of trespassing.

Gegner's shop has been the site of racial demonstrations because he refuses to cut the hair of Negroes. Five Yellow Springs residents arrested July 27 for trespassing at Gegner's pleaded innocent at arraignment here Friday. No date was set for their trial.

Publisher Claimed

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Paulo Bittencourt, 68, Brazilian newspaper publisher, died Friday. Bittencourt, publisher of Correio da Manha in Rio de Janeiro, arrived at the Caroline Hospital two months ago for treatment of cancer.

SWEEPING SUCCESS

What's the best length for a broom handle? * The most efficient way to clean venetian blinds? ** How do you keep visitors and tenants of buildings more tidy? ***

Problems like these are tackled every day by a company that tries to reduce common cleaning chores to a fine science. The firm was formed by a father and son team 78 years ago and today takes pride in doing other people's housework.

In 1885 David Fraad and his son Daniel started to make their way in this country by cleaning, trimming and refueling kerosene lanterns at the old Jersey City pier terminal. Later, they bought mops, brooms and buckets, hired some fellow immigrants, and went into the cleaning business.

Today their organization, still a family owned business, employs 12,000 people and cleans 150 million square feet of space daily all over the U.S.

The company, called Allied Maintenance, cashed in on a trend by big business of turning over non-profitable, non-productive cleaning and maintenance jobs to outside specialists.

They clean everything from basements to airplanes; jails to banks, race tracks and ball parks to hospitals and civic auditoriums. They cleaned the Statue of Liberty and were called in to recommend modern cleaning methods at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic works.

Under a diversification program, the firm branched out from cleaning to fueling and maintaining aircraft at airports across the nation and transferring baggage for passengers; taking care of heat, air conditioning and other maintenance problems in large buildings; plus a host of other jobs in the maintenance field.

They have become, quite literally, one of the world's busiest housekeepers.

(*For a push broom with a six foot brush, the handle should be six inches longer than the man. **Dump venetian blinds in cleaning solvents. ***Wash the sidewalk in front of the building each morning and polish the door handles.)

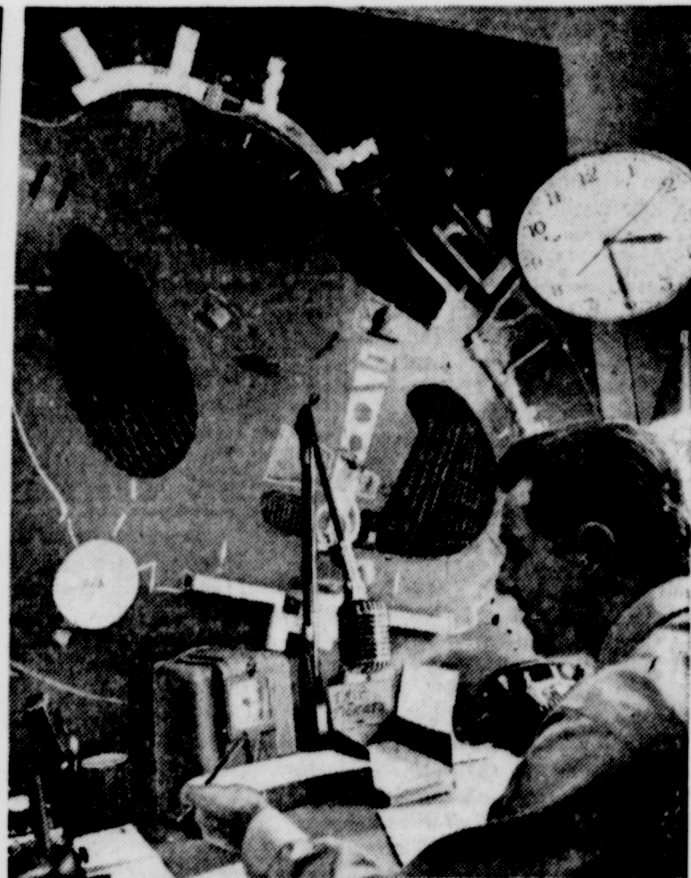

Properly protected, a cleaner uses high power absolute vacuum equipment, fitted with special filters, on a chemical plant's roller conveyor strip.

Judge's Son To Face Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—Gareth Martinis, son of a judge, must stand trial next month on a vehicular homicide charge growing out of a three-car collision that took five lives.

Martinis, 23, was indicted Friday by a Bronx grand jury. He was released in $1,500 bail for trial Sept. 11.

The indictment contained five counts: One for each person killed in the May 19 crash on the Henry Hudson Parkway in the Bronx.

The jury reached its decision Thursday night after hearing 48 witnesses in two days.

Martinis, son of Criminal Court Judge Joseph A. Martinis, was cleared of criminal negligence in the accident after a five-minute deliberation by a panel of three judges, colleagues of the young man's father.

The case aroused a storm of public indignation.

The only penalty thus far against Martinis for his part in the accident has been revocation of his driver's license for 30 days.

After his attorney posted bond Friday, Martinis told newsmen, "When the truth is known, I shall be cleared."

Commented Dist. Atty. Isidore Dollinger: "We think the chances of conviction are very good."

Hospital Treats Man Suffering Bite From Snake

A man bitten by a snake and two injured at work were among seven persons treated Friday at City Hospital.

Kenneth Biacco, 37, of 1107 Center St., Wellsville, suffered a snake bite of the left arm.

Floyd Winland, 61, of 801 Rigby St. suffered lacerations of the ends of his fingers while working at the Woomer Bros. Co.

Harold Derenburger, 39, of 937 Denver St. cut his left hand on an electric saw at home last night.

David Higgins, 6, son of William Higgins of Chester R.D. 1, cut his heel on a piece of glass.

Pam Heath, 7, daughter of Harold Heath of Newell, cut her left knee when she fell while running.

Mrs. Barbara Martin of Haywood St. suffered a fractured nose when she fell down three steps and hit cement.

William T. Grimm, 58, of 422 Walnut St. cut his forehead when he fell at home.

Titles For 443 New Cars Issued

LISBON — The monthly report of Clerk of Courts Carl L. Stacey reveals that new vehicle sales remained high during July.

His office titled 443 new vehicles worth $1,336,984. This compares with 491 in June, and 415 for July, 1962.

The county titled 2,881 new vehicles the first seven months this year — 213 more than in the same period last year.

Stacey said the title department collected $6,058 of which the county received $4,596 and the state $1,462.

Stacey paid the state treasurer $5,915 from the collection of sales and use tax and $47,505 from the collection of the dealers' tax. The county received $539 for its 1 per cent poundage fee.

The title department issued 4,056 auto titles, 34 duplicate titles, 865 memorandums, four duplicate memorandums, 1,493 notations of liens, 1,288 cancellations of liens and 1,245 acknowledgments.

Ninety-one civil cases were filed last month in Common Pleas Court, compared to 82 in July last year.

Safe Burglary Fear Is Found Groundless

A series of circumstances led the owner of a W. 8th St. service station to believe that someone had attempted to open a safe at the business, but it had not been touched.

James Moore, owner of the James Moore Sohio Service Station, 300 W. 8th St., noticed white powder on the door of the safe, which was not completely closed, when he opened this morning about 7.

Moore notified police who investigated and found that the safe had not been locked tightly Friday night. The white powder, which looked like it might have come from the material used in destruction of a safe, turned out to be cleaning powder.

Local Pony Leaguers Lose, 8-6; Will Play Again Today

Need Victory To Stay Alive In Tourney

Hoping for a victory today to stay alive in the District tournament, East Liverpool's Pony League All-Stars tackled Parkersburg after bowing in their opening start Friday night.

Manager Dean Densmore's locals lost to Bellaire - Shadyside, 8-6, in their first test at Marietta.

They returned to action this morning against Parkersburg. A victory would place them in the finals of the losers' bracket to-night.

East Liverpool would need two victories today to qualify for the finals of the double elimination tournament Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

The winner of this morning's game will meet the loser of this afternoon's game between Marietta and Bellaire - Shadyside to-night.

East Liverpool battled to a 5-4 lead in the fourth inning, but couldn't maintain the advantage in losing the opening start against Bellaire - Shadyside.

On the mound was Jack Myler (Golden Star), who surrendered 12 hits, fanned nine and walked only one in going the distance.

Myler smacked a triple and scored a run for East Liverpool. Mike Goodballet (Burbick's) and Phil Talbot (Golden Star) had two singles each.

Thompson of Bellaire-Shadyside limited East Liverpool to eight hits, fanned 13 and issued three walks.

Marietta took the measure of Parkersburg in another game last night, by the same 8-6 score.

East Enders Win 14 To 13 In Slow Pitch

Hard-hitting East End gained a 14-13 victory over Colonial Grill to develop a four-way tie for fourth place in the Slow-Pitch Softball League Friday.

The top four teams in the league will meet in a tournament play-off next week, while the league championship will be decided to-night—weather permitting—when Koerber's meets Dan-D-Bar at 6.

Tied for fourth place are East End, Colonial Grill, Wellsview Elks and Ohio Valley. Osborn Barbers is third.

Lacey hurled East End to the victory. He also collected three hits in four trips. Tivis and Marv Pack also had three hits each, including homers, and Ed Pack also hit for the circuit.

Dom Casio had a homer and single for Colonial, while Bob Hedmond, swinging from the port side, banged two triples and a single. Norm Six also had three hits, including a triple and two singles. The defeat went to pitcher Jim Harris.

Ohio Boxers Feature Card At New Castle

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—Ohioans dominated the five-fight card Friday night in which Fernand (The Bull) Chretien, lightweight champion of Canada, won by unanimous decision over Billy Backus of Syracuse, N. Y.

Results of the preliminaries:

Charley McCreary, 153, Youngstown, Ohio, stopped Fate Davis, 132, Akron, in the second round.

Billy Weir, 137½, New Castle, Pa., stopped Bobby Parnell, 129, Akron, first round.

Doug Agin, 140, Steubenville, Ohio, stopped Herman Matthews, 134, Akron, second round.

Joe Blair, 158, Akron, stopped Bill DeCavitch, 158, Warren, Ohio, second round.

Fails In Pro Bid

BUFAFO, N. Y. (AP)—Rookie defensive end Bob Middleton of Ohio State has failed in his bid to land a job with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League. The Bills placed Middleton, from Marion, Ohio, on waivers Friday.

College All-Stars Win 20 To 17 In Upset Victory Over Green Bay

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP)—The College All-Stars, in an amazing 20-17 upset victory, have proved the mighty Green Bay Packers can be had.

Their demonstration before 65,000 fans in Soldier Field and a national television audience Friday night should throw the 1963 National Football League race into a more unpredictable tizzy than ever.

The Green Bay dynasty, built on two successive NFL championships, may be showing a crack. At least the All-Stars, beating the pros for the first time since 1958 and only the ninth time in the 30-year history of the series, have made the Packers seem human after all.

And guiding the college senior football greats of last season—who now scatter to NFL and American League clubs as pro rookies — was quarterback Ron VanderKelen of Wisconsin, a player none of them wanted.

Vandy wasn't even drafted. But after his sensational showing in the Rose Bowl game—although the Badgers lost to USC despite his record-making passing — he suddenly became popular. Winning the bid for his services were the Minnesota Vikings.

After the Packers had grabbed a 7-0 lead in the opening five minutes by recovering a Larry Ferguson fumble on the All-Stars 11 and sending Jim Taylor across from the 6, Vandy steered his team 57 yards. The drive—behind the running of Ferguson (Iowa-Detroit Lions), and the pass catching of Paul Flatley (Northwestern-Vikings) and Bob Jencks (Miami Ohio-Chicago Bears)—ended with Jencks booting a 20-yard field goal.

JIM TAYLOR of the Green Bay Packers was stopped in mid-air by All-Star James Dunaway during this action in Friday night's game at Chicago. Taylor gained six yards on the play. (UPI Telephoto)

All-Stars Whoop It Up Over Stunning Victory

By JOE MOOSHI, Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP)—"Wowee," shouted hard-running fullback Ben Wilson, the first College All-Star player to get to the dressing room after a 20-17 victory over the Green Bay Packers Friday night, and that set off the general reaction among the youngsters who had their first taste of professional football.

"Great, wonderful, how about that, unbelievable." Those were the remarks shouted in the hot, steamy shower room.

Pat Richter, the All-American who took a pass from Wisconsin teammate Ron VanderKelen for a 73-yard touchdown play in the final quarter, admitted the All-Stars were only trying for a first down.

"Never mind," hollered head Coach Otto Graham, "we'll take it. Sure, we were going for the first down but anytime you try a play in football you're also trying to go all the way."

Graham moved through the dressing room slapping the players on the back and congratulating them.

"You know," said Graham, "a couple of days ago line coach Dick Stanfel said Ed Budde (Michigan State) was our best offensive lineman. During the game he told me they were all great and I have to agree with him.

"It's the best offensive line we have had since I've been coaching here," said Graham whose teams had suffered four straight losses at the hands of the professionals since an inaugural 35-19 victory over Detroit in 1958.

Graham refused to compare this squad with the 1958 team saying, "That's too tough to do but I can't say enough about these guys."

Asked why he switched to Glynn Griffing of Mississippi in the second half after VanderKelen had guided the team effectively in the first half, Graham said he wanted to give somebody else a chance.

"The fact that we had a couple of fumbles also went through my mind. It was all a tossup who would start at quarterback. All four guys are good. Terry Baker (Oregon State) and Sonny Gibbs (Texas Christian) can both throw."

VanderKelen won the job the last few days. He and Griffing did so well I just didn't have a chance to use the others. I went back to VanderKelen because I felt he could do the job at that specific time."

Vince Lombardi, coach of the Packers, said: "We have no excuses. That was a fine All-Star squad and VanderKelen is a great pro prospect. He handles himself exceptionally well."

Lombardi said the Packers missed the services of injured linebacker Ray Nitschke and that full back Jim Taylor was not up to par.

"I tried to get Taylor out of there a couple of times but he managed to get back in there. Our morale was high but we simply couldn't get going."

U.S. To Face British Squad

LONDON (AP)—If the American track team can shake off its airplane legs in time, it can wind up its European tour with a flourish here against a lightly regarded British squad today and Monday.

Even the American girls, much maligned after a dismal failure in Moscow, have a chance to make their battle with the English girls close.

The Americans, who flew in late Friday from Hannover, Germany, where they demolished a good West German team 141-82 last Wednesday and Thursday, are fit enough to run, but may be too track-weary to threaten any world marks.

The teams will rest Sunday—a day off for sports in Britain—and resume on Monday. Competition is at White City.

League Stars Top 'Cuties'

The Chester City League All-Stars whipped the "California Cuties", a touring team from the West Coast, before a crowd of 350 Thursday at Chester City Park.

Williams was on the mound for the locals, and got credit for a 7-5 victory. Reed hit a triple for Chester, while Dawson and Thayer doubled.

In a league game, East End scored a 7-4 forfeit victory over New Cumberland.

A New Cumberland player was ejected for fighting, leaving the squad with only eight in the lineup.

East End collected eight hits off Paytors. Wilson limited New Cumberland to three hits across three innings.

George Oliver Dies At 85 In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH — George Sturges Oliver, 85, former owner and publisher of the Gazette - Times and Chronicle-Telegraph, died Friday night at his home here.

Mr. Oliver was a member of a prominent Pittsburgh family in banking, industry, philanthropy and publishing.

He began his newspaper career in 1900 when his father, George Tener Oliver, later a U. S. senator from Pennsylvania, acquired the Pittsburgh Gazette.

Lawyers Win And Move To Playoff

The Lawyers battled their way into the playoff for the Colt League championship Friday, eliminating Johnson's Pontiac, 4-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Woods.

They had won the opener of the best-of-three game series with Johnson's, 3-0, on Wednesday on Len Walker's two-hit pitching.

The Lawmen will go against the Realtors in the three-game series for the Colt League championship, starting tonight at 5:30 at Colt Field.

The second game will be Sunday at 1:30, with a doubleheader to be played if necessary to determine the champ.

Riverview Florists, defending champion, didn't make it to the playoffs. The Florists won only three games all season.

Stewart, Walker and Coleman drove in runs for the Lawmen, who played one run in the second, two in the third and one in the sixth. Walker slammed a double for the only extra base hit of the game.

Roach and Stepien hurried for Johnson's and were tagged for eight hits. Stepien got the loss. Woods fanned four in picking up the victory.

Motorcycle, Dog Collide, Injuring Man

A Wellsview man was injured when his motorcycle flipped over after striking a dog Friday at 5:30 p.m. on Township Rd. 773, about 1.3 miles south of Route 164, near Salineville, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said Rolland Henthorn, 35, of 731 Wood St., was headed south on the township road when his cycle struck a dog that ran into his path.

The impact caused the vehicle to flip. Henthorn suffered a fractured right collarbone, lacerations of the scalp and abrasions of both knees, the elbow and right shoulder. He was admitted to City Hospital and was in "good" condition today.

A Petersburg man was injured in a spectacular accident Friday at 10:30 a.m. on Route 517 about four miles north of Route 7.

Officers said a car driven by Mable Mansell, 53, of Lisbon pulled from a side road onto Route 517 and was sideswiped by one driven by David Dixon, 39, of Petersburg.

The Dixon car continued on, crashed through the side of a small bridge and came to rest upside down on a creek embankment.

Officers said Dixon suffered contusions and abrasions of the right ribs and hip and possible fractured ribs.

Cars driven by Jerome Simko, 70, of Poland and Daniel Percy, 36, of New Waterford were involved in a crash on Route 7 just over two miles east of Columbiana at 7:35 a.m. yesterday.

Simko made a turn into the path of the Percy car, officers said. Simko was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

McBurney's Win In Little League

McBurney's poured six runs across in the first inning to touch off a 7-0 victory over Golden Star for the championship of the East Liverpool Little League Friday at Thompson Park.

Sayre hurled McBurney's to the title in the showdown battle of a best-of-three series, allowing the Dairymen only three hits — all in the second inning.

McBurney's had won the opening game of the playoff Monday, then bowed to Golden Star on Wednesday, 2-0.

The champs scored their six runs in the first inning on six hits, a walk and an error and added their final tally in the next frame on three hits.

B. Christian blasted a triple and single to lead McBurney's 10-hit attack, while Myers had a double and single and Steffen a double.

Barrett doubled for Golden Star, while Smith and Eckles collected singles off Sayre.

D. Lockhart relieved starter Musuraca for Golden Star. Lockhart allowed only one hit over the final three innings. Musuraca gave up nine hits and seven runs in two innings and was charged with the loss.

Radatz Seen Tiring Under Constant Use

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Dick (The Monster) Radatz still is hissing, but suddenly it's beginning to sound like he's sprung a leak.

Punctured for the second straight time the awesome Boston reliever met his match again in a David and Goliath setting as the Washington Senators popped their slingshots for a 4-3 victory in the second game of a double-header Friday night.

The Red Sox took the opener 5-0 behind Earl Wilson's six-hit effort before Radatz was beaten for the first time since May 12. Oddly, both of Radatz' losses on a 12-2 record have been to Washington. He has beaten every other club in the American League.

Making his 46th appearance, the 6-foot-5, 235-pound Radatz continued to hiss in his fast ball, but showed signs of weakening under the constant calls. In his last two outings, he has been roughed up for four runs and six hits in 3 2/3 innings.

While Washington was peppering Radatz, Robin Roberts again turned in an effective performance against his former New York teammates, beating the American League-leading Yankees for the third straight time, 5-3.

The Chicago White Sox moved to within seven games of the top by beating the Los Angeles Angels 5-1. Jim Hall drove in five runs in Minnesota's 10-3 walloping of Kansas City and Detroit made the most of Rocky Colavito's talents for a 10-9 edge over Cleveland.

Wilson, 9-11 for the season, backed his own pitching in the opener with a three-run homer that put it out of reach before the Senators' newly acquired reliever, Ed Roebuck, came on to stop the Red Sox.

Trailing 3-0 in the nightcap, the Senators struck for four runs in the seventh. Radatz came on after Jim King's two-run triple and gave up a sacrifice fly to Chuck Hinton that tied the score. He wound up a loser when Larry Osborne singled, moved to second on a walk and scored on Don Zimmer's single. Steve Ridzik was the winner.

Roberts, released by the Yankees without throwing a pitch in competition last season, spaced seven hits to bring his record to 10-9. John Powell tagged Whitey Ford, 16-5, for a first-inning homer, then the Orioles put it away with a three-run fourth.

Rookie Tom McCraw stroked a triple and two singles, stole a base and scored three runs for the White Sox and Juan Pizarro, 13-5, after limiting the Angels to seven hits.

Tribe's 7-Run Rally Almost Saves Day

DETROIT (AP)—Jim Bunning of the Detroit Tigers was pitching in the eighth inning with a 10-2 lead Friday night and looked safe.

But to prove that nothing is a sure thing in baseball, Cleveland staged a seven-run rally that just fell short because of a key catch and throw by Rocky Colavito.

The Indians dropped the 10-9 decision after sending shudders through Detroit Manager Chuck Dressen as they sent 13 men to the plate.

Willie Kirkland started the Cleveland fireworks with a tremendous homer. He also hit a run-scoring double in that inning. The biggest blow was Joe Adcock's three-run homer as a pinch hitter.

The Tigers belted three homers. A three-run shot by Colavito and solos by Billy Bruton and Norm Cash.

In the final analysis, the Indians were beaten by errors by second baseman Woodie Held and first baseman Fred Whitfield that led to three unearned runs in the second inning when Detroit scored five times.

Whitfield atoned for his error by hitting a two-run homer in the fourth.

The big play by Colavito came with one out, runners on second and third and the score 10-9. Max Alvis hit a foul down the left field line.

Colavito ran over and grabbed the ball off the top of the bullpen roof, about 250 feet down the line. Larry Brown made a short break for the plate to test Rocky's respect. Adcock fired home and the peg was wide. Brown retreated and the Indians were finished.

Terry Fox, after an intentional pass to Whitfield filled the bases, fanned Sammy Taylor for the third out.

The Tigers scored a run in the first inning and five in the second against starter Jim Grant and added four off Jerry Walker in the seventh, one of the latter on Brown's error.

You're The Skipper How To Set Up Boating Budget

By JOHN BOHANNAN

Few purchases can give so much fun and recreation as a family boat. Since more families are finding it necessary to operate on a budget these days, a knowledge of boating expense items can help determine how large a boat would fit the owner's income. Here they are:

Hull maintenance varies with the type of material and finish, with labor the big factor. A bright-finished boat of varnished natural mahogany requires the most labor. Next, in order, are the painted wooden boat, the metal boat and the reinforced fiberglass plastic boat. Best source of information about upkeep costs is to talk with someone who has owned a boat of a particular size and construction for several years. Will you do the work yourself or hire it done?

MOTIVE POWER maintenance can be determined more accurately. We checked with a dealer's outboard service department and all agreed that the first year would entail no cost, and thereafter the annual tuneup for this make of motor would be $5 for the small fishing size, $7.50 for 5½ or 6 h.p., $9 for 10 h.p., $11 for 40 h.p. and $17 for motors up to 75 h.p. Add another $5 to $10 annually for parts replacement and this should be more than adequate.

With inboard power, the tune-up will be more expensive, depending on the size and type of engine. Again, the dealer can help set up the budget.

If you depend on wind for power, sails may have to be replaced every three years if you do any serious racing, otherwise they may last as long as 10 years.

Actual depreciation varies between makes of boats, with some dropping rapidly and others holding their value for years. Checking the used boat market will help arrive at a figure.

ONE PRACTICAL method is to

BEFORE BUYING a trim outboard runabout such as this, it's smart to plan the boating budget, including hull and engine maintenance, insurance, dockage and depreciation.

use straight-line depreciation for the entire outfit — boat, motor and trailer — over a 10-year period. Set up a special savings account and deposit 10 per cent of the cost each year. This will provide a reserve fund to draw from in case serious trouble develops, such as a burned-out bearing or dry rot in a hull. Then, at the end of the period, money will be available to replace the boat and gear. Whatever is obtained from sale of the old boat or trade-in allowance can be applied to a bigger and better boat.

The insurance rate will depend on where you do your boating. In an inland area we checked, rates ranged from $3.50 to $5 per $100 valuation for the all-risk outboard policy to $1.75 per $100 for inboard cruisers in the $10,000 to $15,000 class. After a boat is five years old the rate increases sharply. For example, in the $3,600 to $4,900 class, the premium increased from $2.65 to $3.35 after five years. East Coast and Florida rates are higher.

If a boat is overpowered in the opinion of the insurance company, chances are a 50 per cent surcharge will be tacked on.

Dockage is another variable. We pay $4 per foot (boat length) for our slip, with $15 per year added for electricity.

The fuel cost should be based on gallons consumed per hour, plus oil, for an estimated number of hours the boat will actually be under way during the season.

The budget should include a miscellaneous account to take care of club dues, replacing lines and minor repairs such as canvass patching and maintenance of accessories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Q.—Can a person carry his own marine insurance by just putting the equivalent of the premium in a savings account?

A.—This could save money, but it's very risky. For example, even at a 5 per cent rate, it would take 25 years of deposits to give full valuation protection.

Q.—I don't understand why boat costs go up so rapidly with length. You'd think a boat twice as long would only cost twice as much to buy and maintain instead of 10 or 20 times as much. Why is this?

A.—Because a boat is three-dimensional and displacement goes up more rapidly. Besides bigger boats require more elaborate gear and more expensive power plants.

Dick Farrell Again Defeats Dodgers, 4-1

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Dick Farrell is a big, strong, right-handed pitcher who makes a living beating the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Oh, sure, he does other things, even beating other clubs from time to time, to earn his paycheck from the Houston Colts. But beating the Dodgers is the big item and the one in which he takes the most pleasure.

He did it again Friday night, putting together a solid six-hitter in a 4-1 Houston triumph over the faltering National League leaders. The loss, the Dodgers' sixth in eight games, lopped a full game off their lead and reduced it to 3½ lengths over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was Farrell's third victory of the season over his onetime teammates, about whom he had some harsh words when they dealt him away in the expansion draft.

The Cards closed up on a 3-2 decision over Philadelphia. They pulled out of a tie for second place when the Chicago Cubs surprised San Francisco 12-11 in 10 innings. Cincinnati blanked Pittsburgh 3-0 while the New York Mets and Milwaukee Braves split a pair. The Braves won the opener 8-0 and the Mets salvaged the nightcap 3-1 in 11 innings.

Farrell is 13-6 against the Dodgers for a career and 3-1 this season.

He struck out three Friday night, walked two and had a four-hitter going into the ninth when the Dodgers collected a couple of harmless singles. A two-run second-inning homer by Jim Wynn gave him all the working room he needed in beating Don Drysdale.

A spectacular, eighth-inning defensive play by Curt Flood saved the game for the Cards. The Phillies had one run home and John Callison, representing the tying run, on second base when Tony Gonzales doubled off the right-center field wall. Flood made a quick recovery, hit cut-off man Julian Javier, who threw out the sliding Callison at the plate.

Ray Sadecki spaced six hits over the eight innings he worked to win it.

The Cubs rallied for six runs in the eighth inning to tie it against the Giants, then won it on Jim Schaffer's two-out single in the 10th, which scored Ron Santo. Leo Burke had a three-run pinch hit homer and Ellis Burton a two-run homer in the Cubs' big rally that wiped out an 11-5 Giant lead.

Edwards Great Help, Maloney Points Out

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jim Maloney, a humble fellow, said after winning his 17th baseball game for Cincinnati Friday night that catcher Johnny Edwards deserves half the credit for his fine record.

"Only time I shook him off on a call this season, the batter hit a home run," Maloney said after his 3-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

Maloney and Edwards are room mates on the road and discuss batters and other baseball problems before going to sleep.

Vada Pinson's 11th home run of the year settled the game. He hit it in the sixth inning after Pete Rose walked and Tommy Harper was hit by a pitched ball.

Maloney has lost only three games. He has struck out 173 batters—third best in the National League. He whiffed 11 Friday night.

For Don Cardwell, Pittsburgh starter, it was a tough loss. He allowed only three hits—one less than Maloney gave up.

Maloney struck out three Pirates in the first inning and had them under control all the way.

Their only real bid came in the eighth inning. Johnny Logan and Bob Bailey singled. Maloney ended the threat right there by getting Bill Virdon to look at a third strike.

Fairmont Coach Dies After Heart Surgery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Paul C. (Pi) Davis, head basketball coach at Fairmont (W. Va.) State College, died Friday after undergoing major heart surgery at Cleveland Clinic Hospital here. He was 58.

Davis has been under treatment at the clinic about three weeks.

He joined the staff of Fairmont State College in 1949 after serving as coach at Barrackville Junior High School and Fairmont East High School.

His best season at Fairmont State was in 1957, when the Falcons won 21 and lost 8 games.

Airman Qualification Exam Set On Mondays

T. Sgt. James A. Lee, area Air Force recruiter, said today that the airman qualification examination will be given every Monday at 1:30 p. m. instead of every other Thursday as previously scheduled. Interested men and women should report to the third floor of the City Hall by 1 p. m. to apply.

The aptitude tests are given to predict the probability of success in the administrative, general, mechanical and electronics career fields and are used to guide young men and women into the field for which they are best qualified.

Taking the aptitude test does not carry an obligation of any type, but those with passing scores will be tentatively qualified for enlistment in the career field of their choice, he said.

Interested persons may call Sgt. Lee at FU 6-8181 days or EV 7-2972 evenings or report directly to the City Hall Monday.

More Horses At Waterford

With the closing of several meetings in the East and Midwest, many stables have been shipping to Waterford Park for the remainder of the summer meet that will run through Labor Day, Sept. 2.

One of the prominent trainers who arrived Friday is P. F. Fischer. He brought 14 horses from Ohio, where he has been campaigning most of the year. It was Fischer who trained Another Art, holder of two track records at Waterford Park.

Owner-trainer Carl Cooper, another horseman of note who raced here successfully in the past, came in with 14 thoroughbreds who have been in training at this. Other trainers of prominence shipping in from the northern Ohio track are D. C. Armstrong with six head and Herb Jolley with eight.

Jack Flinchum, former rider at major tracks, now training a public stable, came in from River Downs with five classy campaigners. Flinchum will add to his string in several days and expects to have at least a dozen horses in his string.

Jockey Jerry West, one of the leading riders at Miles Park this year, arrived Thursday and already has been named on several horses during his short time here. West is riding free lance and his book is being handled by William Smith, a former chief petty officer in the Navy.

Herman "Slim" Summers, liaison representative for Waterford Park, is making an extended tour of tracks on behalf of Waterford's next stakes event, the Silver Plate Mile, to be run on Saturday, Aug. 17, with nominations closing Aug. 10.

Summers will visit Finger Lakes and Fort Erie, among other tracks, before returning to Waterford.

Meadow Dean Wins Scioto Pace Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Meadow Dean, owned by George Clemans of London, Ohio, won the featured $2,000 conditioned pace in 2:04 4/5 at Scioto Downs Friday night. Driven by Dick Hackett, the 4-year-old gelding won by 3¼ lengths and returned $2.60.

In the co-feature $1,500 handicap trot, Kay Kirk, owned by Harry Distelhorst of Columbus, remained undefeated in six starts. Driven by Curly Smart, the 5-year-old bay mare won in 2:04 1/5 and returned $4.80.

Twin Double $37,116

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—An unidentified double won $37,116.10 on the twin double at Monticello Raceway Friday night, believed to be the highest ever at a harness track in New York State. The winning combination was 7, 1, 6 and 5 for the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth races.

LONDON (AP) — Earl Mountbatten, admiral of the British fleet, leaves Sept. 13 for a six-day visit to Canada and the United States, it was announced Friday.

Britain's chief of defense will confer with his Canadian and U.S. counterparts and receive an honorary degree from Jacksonville (Fla.) University.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, who received the nation's praise for the mercury flight in which his space capsule went more than 5,000 m.p.h., is being prosecuted for going 75 m.p.h.

A state highway patrolman said he clocked Grissom at that speed for two miles before stopping him July 27. Last November, Grissom was arrested and fined $20 for speeding in another Florida county.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Bobby Darin, released from a hospital after two days of tests, has been ordered by doctors to take it easy for six to eight weeks.

The doctors diagnosed his trouble as exhaustion.

Darin collapsed July 23 in New York after a performance.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Joan Dorsey, 23, the first known Negro stewardess graduated from an American Airlines training course, says she considers herself a pioneer in some ways and is eager to start work.

Miss Dorsey, of Flagstaff, Ariz., told newsmen no incidents marred her training and no unusual problems arose.

"The girls were just wonderful all the way through school," she said. "I liked them all very much. And I think they liked me."

Jobless Claims Reflect Increase

The Ohio State Employment Service received 375 claims for unemployment compensation this week, 26 more than for the week ending July 27.

The figure included 87 new claims and 288 continued, according to Harry Dinsmore, manager.

Unemployment claims for July totaled 1,560 — 351 new and 1,209 continued. This compares with 1,298 claims in June.

The office handled 742 applications for work in July and made 77 placements, including three handicapped persons.

For June, the office had 749 applications for work, and placed 53 applicants, two of whom were handicapped.

Assateague Island, Md., is probably the largest undeveloped seashore between Cape Cod and Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Junior Editors Quiz on VISION

QUESTION: How does the eye see?

ANSWER: Did you ever realize what a wonderful thing an eye is? It tells us more about the world outside than does a nose or an ear. We can look up into the sky and see things out of reach of our other senses; we can look at tiny objects as small as a pinhead.

As our top picture shows, the eye works in much the same way as a camera. Light rays from objects are gathered together by the camera's lens, and a small image, upside down, is focused sharply on the film inside the camera. The camera's "diaphragm" can be adjusted to allow just enough light inside to make the best picture.

The eye has a lens in it, too, which also throws a reversed image toward the back. It lands on the sensitive "retina" which lines the back of the eyeball. The image is then almost miraculously sent along the optic nerve to the brain, being turned right side up in the process. The eye has a diaphragm, like the camera, only it works automatically, opening and closing to allow just the right amount of light in for clear vision. The retina is lined with light-sensitive cells, some called "rods," others "cones." The cones produce sharp, clear vision and see color, while the rods are sensitive to vision in dim light. These cells blend their impressions so that we see.

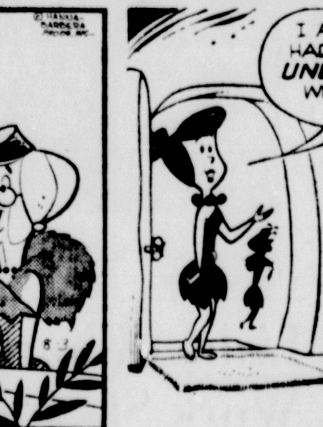

FOR YOU TO DO: Watch a person's eyes in a bright light and notice how small can be the pupil, or dot of black. Then notice this dot open up as the person moves into a darker place. Look at the big pupil of your cat's eye in shadow; take him to a window, and the pupil turns to a narrow up and down slit.

Libby Wolff of Fort Collins, Colo., wins the daily grand prize of a 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedias for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, Aug. 3, the 215th day of 1963. There are 150 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1863, the first race was held at Saratoga, N.Y., the nation's oldest racetrack and officially known as the "capital of thoroughbred racing." It was in the 1919 Sanford Stakes, at Saratoga, that the great Man O' War suffered his only defeat when beaten by an entry named Upset.

On this date
In 1492, Christopher Columbus sailed on his first voyage to America.

In 1778, Gen. George Washington was first introduced to the Marquise de Lafayette of France who became a member of Washington's military staff during the American Revolution.

In 1892, Congress levied a tax of 50 cents on each immigrant entering the United States—a tax that was known as "head money."

In 1923, Calvin Coolidge was sworn in as president of the United States following the death of Warren G. Harding.

In 1945, the Allies announced that Japan had been completely blockaded as World War II drew rapidly to a close.

Ten years ago: Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld asked United Nations members to use the U.N. less for voicing complaints and more for presentation of proposals furthering the common objective.

Five years ago: In talks at Peking, Russian Premier Khrushchev and Red China's Mao Tse-tung accused the Western powers of warlike actions.

One year ago: Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro acknowledged opposition to his Communist regime in the form of sabotage and shootings.

TV Highlights

TONIGHT

6. WTAE, Major Adams: "The Jose Morales Story", with guests Lee Marvin and Lon Chaney Jr. A man who deserted his comrades at the Alamo gets an opportunity to redeem himself.

7. WTAE, Movie: "On The Threshold Of Space", starring John Hodiak and Dean Jagger. While testing equipment for use in outer space, a young doctor runs into a mysterious experience.

Lisbon Church Guild Holds Work Session, Dinner Event

The Women's Guild of St. Jacob's United Church of Christ held a forenoon work session, followed by a coverdish dinner and business meeting Thursday at the Lisbon church. Thirty attended.

Mrs. Gail Miller and Mrs. Garret Campbell were hostesses. Mrs. Guy Frantz and Mrs. Campbell led the opening meditation. The group made 600 gauze pads for the Columbiana County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Kenneth Clapsaddle, president, presided at the afternoon business session. Announcement was made of a retreat to be held Sept. 16-18 at Pilgrims Hills.

Officers To Meet
Officers and department chairman and co-chairman of the guild will meet at the church Wednesday to plan programs for the coming year, beginning in September.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Walter Sebrill. "Persons of Special Needs" was the program presented by Mrs. George N. Smith in the form of a play.

Next meeting is Sept. 5. The Missionary Society of the New Lebanon United Presbyterian Church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. William Stafford of Minerva. Assisting her were her daughter, Mrs. Harold Thompson, and her daughters-in-law, Mrs. Donald Stafford and Mrs. Roger Stafford.

Business Conducted
Mrs. Frank Hare presided for business when Mrs. Clyde Ferguson was elected president, succeeding Mrs. John Ewing, who resigned to resume her college studies.

The Rev. and Mrs. Lewis Fraser of Wellsville were among guests. Now retired, Rev. Fraser served the New Lebanon church 20 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sloss of the old East Liverpool Rd. were honored at a family dinner party Friday evening for their 30th wedding anniversary.

Sloss and the former Dora Helman were married at New Cumberland Aug. 2, 1933, by the Rev. H. W. Howland. They have two daughters, Mrs. Ross DeSelle and Mrs. Paul Davner, both of Lisbon, and four grandchildren.

Retired As Welder
Sloss, a welder at the Salem Tool Co. for several years, is retired and for the past 10 years has been confined to a wheel chair by illness.

Miss Darlene McDevitt was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party given by the church.

Family Of 13 Barely Exists On $3 A Day

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP)—

A family of 13, including 11 children ranging in age from 2 to 18 years, was found today living in a primitive conglomeration of tin, logs and cloth in a desolate wooded area near here.

Authorities uncovered the plight when they arrested the father on charges of destroying property. State police said the charge was filed by the owner of a house from which the family had been evicted July 23.

Police said the family had been living in the improvised lean-to since then. The only income the family had was $3 a day, brought home by a 17-year-old daughter who was working as a waitress.

An 18-year-old son also was arrested on breaking and entering charges, police said in connection with his foraging in the area for food. A 15-year-old son had left the crude shelter to roam alone in the area, sleeping in parked cars and obtaining food as best he could.

The Rev. Temple G. Wheeler, an Episcopalian minister in Charles Town who has entered the case in an effort to help the family, said the mother has consented to have the children reside temporarily at the home of a nearby farm couple. The mother said, however, that she would remain in the woods.

GOP Slate Set At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Howard Wolf, former mayor and councilman, heads a slate endorsed by the Salineville Republican Club Friday night for the village election Nov. 5.

With Wolf as candidate for mayor, the slate includes Howard Ahlborn and Eugene Jarvis, for Council, and four for the three posts on the Board of Public Affairs, Charles (Bud) Brown, Eugene Yohst, Howard Goddard and Cecil Carter.

The board incumbents, Yohst, Goddard and Carter, have filed for new terms.

The other candidates expect to file by the deadline, Allen Allmon, president, said after the special meeting held at the Salineville High School cafeteria.

Wolf discussed what he termed "lack of progress in the village in recent years," and George Leishman spoke on the village and waterworks budgets.

Jay Carter Jr. called attention to the exodus of young people because the village "has nothing to offer to keep them here."

The club reported 100 paid-up members. Eighteen attended the special meeting with Allmon presiding. Next meeting is Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. at the school.

WOULD YOU PAY $50 FOR A HAIRCUT?

EDDIE FISHER

JAY SEBRING

■ IN LOS ANGELES, there's an establishment where you can get a haircut for a mere $25—or $50 if the barber comes to your house. And the fragile-looking young man who gets these fees isn't a barber at all; Jay Sebring is a "cosmetologist"!

If you're willing to settle for one of Jay's assistants, you can get a haircut for a measly $7.50 for the first visit and $6 for follow-up calls. On the other hand, Paul Anka has paid Jay $150 plus expenses to clip his hair in Las Vegas, and oilman Saul West had him flown to Dallas, Texas, to cut his hair for $500 plus expenses.

Sebring got the idea for his career while in the Navy. "It has always bothered me that the only luxury man permits himself, in terms of personal appearance, is an occasional visit to a barbershop. French poodles get better clippings than men do."

Jay attended barber college, spent three years in women's beauty parlors, then learned to style men's hair by practicing on beatniks. As Jay's results improved so did his clientele—which now sounds like a Who's Who of Hollywood celebrities. Among them are Henry Fonda, Red Skelton, Jackie Cooper, Steve Allen, Tony Franciosa, Andy Williams, Eddie Fisher, Cliff Robertson, Mickey Rooney, Robert Horton, and Frank Sinatra and his clan—except Dean Martin who, according to Sebring, "cuts his own hair, although he did use my scissors once."

After working on "Mutiny on the Bounty," Marlon Brando got his first haircut in two years from Sebring. Eden Ahbez, the original "Nature Boy," turned down a $3,000 offer from Perry Como who wanted to cut his hair on his television show. Instead, Ahbez went to Sebring and paid the customary charge. And Frank Sinatra's sole advice to his son Frank, Jr., before his first tv appearance was, "Have Jay cut your hair."

Just how startling the effect of Jay's scissors can be was obvious when Hedda Hopper ran into Milton Berle after his hair had been restyled by Sebring. "Milton," she cried, "you had your face lifted."

Jay's two great ambitions are to find time to furnish the beautiful home he shares with his wife in Beverly Hills (it once belonged to John Barrymore) and to give a haircut to the one man who would make his standing as a tonsorial artist complete: President John F. Kennedy.

TUBE"

By RONALD

slow. And anyway, if you hadn't been angry, you never would have been driving so fast, would you?"

I shook my head. I'd never had a blowout at high speed. I was unnerved. "Had you been driving defensively," said Dr. Hulbert, "you would have pulled over and stopped, allowing the other driver to go on. Then your attention would not have been blurred."

As we resumed driving, Dr. Hulbert told me my handling of the blowout could have been better. Researchers find that, contrary to popular belief, a blowout does not usually throw a car out of control; the driver does. In a blowout, the car's wheels usually continue to follow the path of the car. But sudden braking or panic twisting of the wheel can produce a nightmare. The correct answer usually is gentle braking and steering to a stop. Dr. Hulbert concluded by saying, "Let's stop for a drink."

HE WASN'T JOKING. We stopped, and I had two cock-tails. Then I drove again—better than before, I thought. "Your co-ordination has slipped," he warned, after getting a report from the control room.

I couldn't see anything different about my driving. We were back on that mountain road again, chatting. And again there was that ominous bang.

Another blowout. I hit the brakes and at once remembered that was wrong. The car skidded for the guard-rail. I tried to correct the steering, but couldn't.

"Same curve," said Dr. Hulbert. "Same blowout. But last time you made it. This time . . ." he shook his head. "Your reactions were poor. You never realized that the alcohol had sharply reduced your driving attention."

Clearly, the Simulator can provide scientists with many answers to the urgent questions of driving safety.

"We are beginning to believe that preventing inattention may be the most important of all safety devices," says Dr. Hulbert. "Every time you slip behind the wheel, ask yourself this question: Am I alert enough to drive safely?"

If not, perhaps you should simply let someone else drive or wait a while before you set out. Psychologists believe that in certain cases simply reminding yourself of the potential hazard may snap you back to alertness.

I learned the dangers of inattention when I drove in two accidents which, had they been real, might have cost my life. You might not be so lucky.

I CRASHED IN A "TEST"

This writer drove in a head-on collision and a plunge off a cliff—but, thanks to laboratory science, all he got was a lesson in why such things happen

WHY DID MORE than 40,000 men, women, and children die on America's roads last year? What could they have done to survive?

Recently, I learned some of the newer answers to these questions as I drove, without danger, in two deadly crashes. My "fatal accidents" took place in a remarkable driving-research tool—the Driver Simulator. It is located at the Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Simulator was built to "create" accidents in the controlled world of the laboratory. What has it proved?

"Many people believe speed causes most accidents," says psychologist Dr. Slade Hulbert. "But our team of engineers and psychologists finds it to be driver inattention. Let's take a drive and I'll show you what I mean."

Dr. Hulbert led my wife Patricia and me into a high-ceilinged room cluttered with scientific gadgetry. In the center was a new sedan with its rear wheels sitting on rollers. Curving around the front and sides of the car was a great screen. Behind the car was another screen.

I took the wheel, and Patricia crawled into the passenger's seat. An assistant snapped a belt around my chest to measure breathing and attached a wire to my left ankle to pick up electrical skin changes. These devices, similar to a lie detector, register emotional reactions.

Dr. Hulbert slipped into the back seat, wearing a headset. "Ordinarily," he told us, "the driver is alone. He merely responds to what he sees during the drive."

The room went dead black. "Start the engine," Dr. Hulbert said. Until then, I'd been skeptical. Bring the road into the laboratory? Impossible. There might be a few clever effects, but . . .

"Shift into drive," Dr. Hulbert said. I shifted. All was still black. "Accelerate to 40, please." I watched the speedometer climb. It was eerie. Forty miles an hour in utter darkness.

"Now," said Dr. Hulbert. Suddenly I blinked.

Before, around, and behind us was the road—and we were moving!

I turned the wheel—and the car, cleverly linked to the picture on the screen, turned from side to side on the road. I stepped on the gas—and the scenery moved past faster. We were whizzing over a California highway, seeing nothing but the road, mountains, and sky. The illusion, created by a special projector lens invented by Carl Williams and Dr. Richard Vetter of the UCLA faculty, was incredible.

After a few minutes, our test seemed like a Sunday drive. As we cruised along, Dr. Hulbert told us something of the Institute's findings about inattention. At the speeds the average driver often travels, a car can easily move into a trouble zone while he is turning to look at scenery, road signs, or even a pretty girl. Police often explain such accidents by speed. But careful interviewing usually turns up a brief diversion—sometimes of a very subtle kind—which can mean disaster.

As Dr. Hulbert talked, I became engrossed in what he had to say. I began turning my head to speak to him.

"Look out!" Patricia cried.

I spun around. Two cars were coming toward us on the narrow mountain road. One was pulling out to pass. "There's no room," I shouted.

I COULDN'T BELIEVE IT. The passing car was picking up speed, headed straight for us on our side of the road. Suddenly, I realized what was going to happen. I braked hard. I spun the wheel. But it was too late. There was no place to go. We were going to crash!

There was a kaleidoscopic rush of images, and suddenly the car was gone. But my heart pounded.

"You have just had a fatal accident," Dr. Hulbert said. Then he analyzed the crash. It began with the simplest kind of inattention: I wasn't looking. Then, after I had seen the problem, I wasn't able to respond to what I saw.

"Your judgment was blocked psychologically," Dr. Hulbert pointed out. "Experience told you the other driver would do the sensible thing—that he would turn back into his own lane. So you paid no attention to the cues which called for immediate action. You waited.

"Our engineers stage actual car crashes. They find that in the last three to five seconds before most head-on crashes, maneuvers make no practical difference."

But had I not lost seconds during my inattention, I could have braked sooner and thus left a longer track for the oncoming car to return to its proper lane.

How can this common and often tragic trick of the mind be avoided? "Our staff men," Dr. Hulbert said, "all practice what they call defensive driving. They never assume the other fellow will do the right thing. They assume he may well do the wrong thing—that he may judge or steer badly, even be sick or drunk. That way, they can protect themselves by responding to danger in time."

We continued our drive, though I was warned I might soon be shown another form of inattention. Then another car came up behind me. No matter what I did, he stayed there, much too close for safety. It was darned annoying.

"Why don't you just speed up and get away from him?" asked Dr. Hulbert.

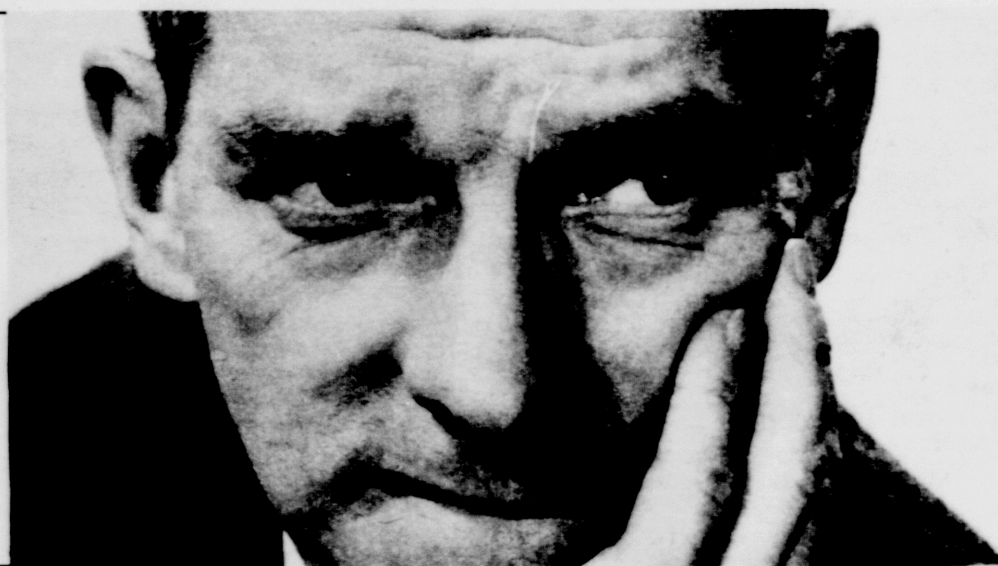

The road was twisting, and we were doing 50. I shook my head. But after 10 minutes that car was a nerve-wracking nuisance. Then I saw a straight stretch of road ahead. In annoyance, I gunned the engine to 60, then 65. And then the road was curving again, and I began to slow.

Suddenly, there was a bang—a blowout! The car yawed off course as I hit the brakes and tried to straighten out. We skidded toward a cliff, and I turned with the skid, braked again, and finally stopped—inches from the guardrail. My mouth was very dry.

"Just made it," Dr. Hulbert said. "The control room reports that, as that car stayed close behind you, you became steadily more emotional—until your emotions blocked your judgment and attention. Your reaction to the blowout was

YOU SHOULD BE A SELFISH PARENT!

Are you a selfish parent? If not, you ought to be!

The statement may surprise, perhaps even shock you. But as a psychologist who has practiced for many years, I believe it is high time to puncture the widely held myth that parents must be totally unselfish when it comes to their children and that the best parents are those who neglect their own happiness and welfare for their children's sake.

For the most part, these ideas are dangerous nonsense.

In the first place, being completely unselfish when it comes to children is not only cheating yourself but seriously handicapping the youngsters for their coming battle with life.

And secondly, the parent who exhibits the right kind of selfishness in bringing up children is showing a deeper and more real love than self-sacrificing mothers and fathers.

In my files is the case of a two-year marriage that appears headed for destruction because the young wife's parents have martyred themselves for her. The father and mother are now piteously dependent upon their daughter, for whom they "gave up everything"—including themselves.

In turn, the young wife is unable to break her reliance upon them and runs to Mom and Dad with all her problems. She forced her husband to give up a fine business opportunity in another state because she couldn't bear to leave her parents. She visits them several nights a week and is now urging her husband to sell their home and buy another one that is closer to them.

Naturally, the young husband has become increasingly resentful, and bitter quarrels have erupted. It is painfully clear that the "all-sacrificing" parents have succeeded only in snaring their daughter into a permanent dependency relationship. The outlook for this young couple is gloomy.

Now let me focus sharply and clearly upon the heart of the problem:

Why, exactly, am I warning against the hazards of all-sacrificing parenthood?

Students of human behavior agree that one of the basic influences in the development of any individual centers around his need for security. Certainly, this is the key to emotional health. Every person must develop within himself a feeling of importance, of worth-whileness. He must grow up with confidence in himself and in his ability to face and handle the problems of living.

But if a child has a parent who is always giving and giving, that child never gets the chance to handle his own affairs and obtain crucially important experience in overcoming problems. The result? A lifelong dependence.

The consequences can be tragic. Here are some of the possible aftermaths of all-out parental unselfishness:

The child may develop a "school phobia."

Each fall, nearly every neighborhood has a number of children who refuse to start school unless accompanied each day by their mothers. I know one woman who sat patiently in kindergarten for months. Finally, her child permitted her to leave but only if she would be waiting when school ended.

This pattern can continue through the third or fourth grade, until the youngster becomes acutely embarrassed over it. But, the insecurity feelings will still remain within the child and can crop out in many ways.

Other youngsters may have headaches or stomach-aches in the morning that disappear miraculously if they are permitted to stay home. Many parents mistakenly believe these youngsters fear school. But that is not so—they fear separation from their mothers.

The child may be unable to perform any project that takes a little initiative.

A youngster brought up to believe he comes first lacks a self-starter mechanism. He can only operate on a push given him by his parents. For example, he might not even be able to do homework by himself unless his parents help or start him off.

When he approaches a schooling level where parents can no longer help, he must sink or swim—and often sinks. Unable to get going, he fails to develop to his fullest intellectual capacity.

The youngster may become a social outcast.

If a child is not emancipated from his parents, he is a prime candidate for unpopularity. He wants other children to behave as generously toward him as his mother and father, but they have no intention of doing so. His bewilderment turns to frustration and then to anger. "If I can't have my way," he says (and often in so many words), "I won't play."

So he doesn't play—and the other children really couldn't care less.

I know a boy, now 12, whose mother has devoted her life to him. As a result, he has failed in every single social experience. Already, he has

Tug-and-Reach Game By Albert Lee

For this game, you need four players, four handkerchiefs, and a strong rope long enough so that, when the ends are tied together, it makes a circle with a diameter of about five feet. The players take hold of the rope (each with one hand) in such a way that they make a square of it.

A handkerchief is placed tent fashion about four feet behind each player. At the signal, each tries to tug the rope toward himself so that he can pick up the handkerchief behind him. The first to pick up his handkerchief wins.

If your philosophy is "everything for the kids," you're hurting them and cheating yourself, says this noted psychologist

By ROBERT D. WEITZ, Ph. D.

Consulting psychologist in private practice; former Chief Psychologist, U. S. Public Health Service, Midwestern Medical Center, St. Louis

as told to Lester and Irene David left three Boy Scout troops because he felt "discriminated" against. He is a chronic complainer, heartily disliked by all the kids.

He may eventually rebel against his parents, with serious consequences.

A pathetic, but extremely revealing, incident occurred recently in a Midwestern courtroom. A 19-year-old youth stood before a judge and heard himself sentenced to a 10-year prison term for robbing a house of $7,000 in furs and jewels. After the sentencing, the father asked the boy's lawyer: "But why? I gave my whole life for him. He didn't need money—why did he steal?"

A psychologist might have told him the boy's criminal behavior probably had its roots in his parents' very unselfishness. They did so much for him that he never learned to do much for himself; thus, feelings of inadequacy developed, which intensified as the years went on.

This feeling seethed within him and ultimately he took his revenge in a way he felt would hurt his parents most—by stealing. Of course, the youth was unaware of this reasoning, which took place in his subconscious mind. Psychologists call this "acting out" inner feelings.

Why do parents feel they must sacrifice themselves for their children?

One reason is that they feel it's "expected" of them. Society today approves of the couple who rearrange their entire lives to center around the youngsters in the family, and most parents are anxious to win this approbation.

Another reason is that a large group of parents, possessing more material goods than their own parents had, insist upon giving children what they themselves missed. "I want my child to have everything I couldn't have," they say.

Finally, a parent may act this way because his or her own life is so barren, with few outside interests. So a life is built around the children.

But now the important question arises: What is the right kind of parental selfishness?

Parents must offer a youngster security from the outset in the form of love. But they have another obligation—to give a child separation at the same time. In other words, they must build two kinds of security simultaneously—the feeling of being wanted and the strength that comes from being able to act independently.

Therefore, I urge parents to keep these five things in mind:

Give your child independence from birth and the freedom called for by his age and experience.

As an infant, place him in a playpen or carriage outdoors, but alone. As a toddler, don't keep him locked in the yard constantly. Offer him freedom of movement, bearing safety factors in mind. The child who is closed in comes to feel security in the gate and will find it difficult to venture away. Later, he may not want to leave home for camp, college, or anywhere else.

Take vacations away from your children.

As a hard-working parent, you have your own need for rest and change. Satisfy it. Get over the notion that you must take the children with you all the time. Occasionally, yes—always, no! If you can leave them in competent hands, do so. The separation is also a conditioning process that will help the youngsters in later years.

Allow your child to feel deprived.

In later years, the world isn't going to gratify his every wish, so don't bring him up expecting it. It's amazing how many parents fail to realize this simple law of life. How often, for example, have you done something like this: When Mark, aged 11, needs new shoes, mother buys him a pair and takes Robert, his younger brother, along. He, too, gets a new pair even though his are perfectly good. Mother, however, doesn't want Robert to feel bad. Robert should get shoes because he needs them, not because somebody else gets a pair.

Of course, an extra now and then doesn't hurt. I know that children want to have what "everybody else" has, so an occasional generosity is fine. But don't splurge on the unnecessary.

Do not give up your hobbies or outside interests.

Many parents put aside cherished leisure-time activities after children arrive because they feel they no longer have time for them. It's a grave mistake. Obviously, you won't have as much free time as before, but the interests should be kept up. Later, when the youngsters don't require so much attention, you will be grateful you did.

Keep yourself in mind, too, when there's extra money for luxuries.

In many homes, every dollar over and above necessities is earmarked for the children. The money may go into a college fund, savings for a wedding or dowry, clothing for the children, furniture for their rooms.

Save for the children, of course. But give your own needs at least as much weight. You've worked hard and you deserve them.

I cannot stress too strongly that the parent who gives his children everything actually fails to give them the most important thing of all—a deep-set strength to face the world as a confident human being.

Lemon Saffron Bread

- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered Spanish saffron
- 1/2 cup hot water
- 2 tablespoons grated lemon peel
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten

1. Blend flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt together; set aside.
2. Pour hot water over saffron and stir until dissolved; blend with lemon peel and juice. Set aside.
3. Cream shortening. Add sugar gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition. Add eggs gradually, beating well.
4. Add dry ingredients in fourths and liquid in thirds, mixing just until blended after each addition. Turn into two greased 7 1/2 x 3 1/2 x 2 1/2-in. loaf pans.
5. Bake at 350°F for 40 to 45 min., or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. 2 loaves bread

Avocado Mousse

Serve a wedge of the Avocado Mousse with a wedge of the Creamy Raspberry Sherbet for a heavenly dessert duo.

- 1 1/2 cups mashed ripe avocado
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 8 drops green food coloring
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 1/2 cups chilled whipping cream
- 1/4 cup confectioners' sugar

1. Blend the first six ingredients together and set aside.
2. Soften gelatin in milk in a small saucepan. Stir over low heat until dissolved. Blend gelatin into the avocado mixture. Chill about 45 min., or until mixture begins to gel (gets slightly thicker).
3. Beat whipping cream until of medium consistency (piles softly). With final few strokes, blend in the confectioners' sugar. Fold into the avocado mixture.

4. Turn into a 5-cup fancy mold, which has been rinsed with cold water. Freeze until firm.

5. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate and allow to stand at room temperature for 1 hr. before serving. 10 to 12 servings

Creamy Raspberry Sherbet

- 3 10-oz. pkgs. frozen red raspberries, thawed and forced through a fine sieve
- 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
- 1/3 cup milk
- 1 1/2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin

1. Combine raspberry sirup, lemon juice, and confectioners' sugar; beat with a rotary beater until smooth.
2. Soften gelatin in milk in a small saucepan. Stir over low heat until completely dissolved. Blend into raspberry mixture.
3. Pour into refrigerator trays and freeze until mushy. Remove from freezer, turn into a bowl, and beat until creamy.
4. Turn into a 1-qt. fancy mold, which has been rinsed with cold water. Set in freezer and freeze until firm.
5. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate just before serving. 10 to 12 servings

Hot Ginger Tea

- 4 tea bags
- 2 3-in. cinnamon sticks
- 8 whole cloves
- 2 large pieces crystallized ginger, cut in very thin slices
- 3 to 4 tablespoons sugar
- 6 cups boiling water

1. Combine the tea, cinnamon sticks, cloves, crystallized ginger, and sugar in a large teapot. Pour boiling water over tea, spices, and sugar; allow to steep 3 min. Remove tea bags and steep for 5 min.
2. To serve, pour tea into cups and float a quarter slice of orange in each cup.

About 8 servings

Jill scores in her first comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn," opposite Frank Sinatra.

A New Life for Jill

A RED-HAIRED YOUNG LADY hesitantly entered the stage door of a Los Angeles burlesque house and approached one of the "exotic dancers" who worked there.

"I want a career," she said. "Will you help me?"

The buxom dancer gave the well-tailored girl the look-over. "Well, you got the ingredients—you just don't project them. You gotta get more swing in the hips, you gotta look less hoity-toity."

The newcomer spotted another dancer applying heavy eye make-up. "Could you show me how to do that?" she asked. The dancer complied and even gave more pointers.

"You oughta dress less PTA-ish. And them 'jools'—they don't have much flash."

"Them jools" would be appraised conservatively at several thousand dollars by any jeweler. And the PTA-ish suit was custom-tailored at one of the nation's finest shops. The newcomer?—Hollywood actress Jill St. John, whose visit to a burlesque house wasn't research for a new movie. It was far more important.

The crisis had begun a few days earlier. "I was very depressed," Jill recalls. "I simply had to get out of Hollywood and was packed for Paris." She had a lot to be depressed about. Her career had bogged down. Worse, she recently had left her husband Lance Reventlow, son of Barbara Hutton of the Woolworth multimillions.

"Just then my agent called and asked whether I wanted to try out for a comedy part in Paramount's 'Come Blow Your Horn.' Did I! For years I've been trying to shake the image of the rich-girl dilettante who dabbles in acting and can do only ingénue roles."

BUT AT PARAMOUNT it was the same old story. "They said I was too sophisticated for comedy, not sexy enough," Jill continues. "So I went right over to that burlesque house to learn things. Next, I bought a yellow jersey dress and a flaming wig. I put it all together and went back, swingin' and swayin', for another interview. They took one look at me and said: 'What are we waiting for? She's the girl for us!'"

Jill's performance in "Come Blow Your Horn" led to two more comedy films, yet to be released—"Who's Minding the Store?" with Jerry Lewis and "Who's Been Sleeping in My Bed?" with Dean Martin.

Jill's career, which began when she was six, appears to have turned the corner in a big way. But what about her private life? At that, Jill throws up her hands in exasperation. "I don't know what Lance and I will do. Maybe after this summer, we'll make some decision."

A year ago Jill moved out of Lance's three-and-a-half-acre hilltop mansion, which has a swimming pool stretching from living room to terrace. ("But, imagine, only two bedrooms!" Jill complains.)

At the time, Jill said: "We had different outlooks, views, and interests." Yet today her conversation is studded with references to the couple's mutual interests—art collecting, a pet menagerie ranging from hamsters to a deer which neighbors forced them to dispose of, such vigorous sports as skiing and scuba diving, and cooking.

Her career

is booming after the doldrums of being typed as a "rich girl"—but what about her real-life role of estranged wife of a rich boy?

In former days, Jill attended many an auto race to please Lance Reventlow. Currently, they're living separate lives.

St. John

("Lance tells everybody he taught me to cook. Say, until I took him in hand, he could have used his bread as a cornerstone for our house!")

Recently, when Lance sold one of his countless antique autos to a Hollywood columnist, Jill indignantly telephoned him to complain about losing that "lovely old car." They've dated together, and she has visited the old homestead—but no reconciliation has resulted. Yet when somebody mentions that the Reventlows are "legally separated," Jill corrects them acidly: "We are not legally separated. We simply are not living together."

The couple's friends believe a factor in their breakup was Lance's return to auto-race driving. Earlier in their marriage, he had given up competitive driving to design and build racers for international events, but his much-lauded Scarab failed most tests, and it seems frustration pushed Lance back behind the wheel. Jill's reaction to his dangerous pursuit can be glimpsed in the way she explains her "extrasensory perception."

"I know I have ESP," she says. "I used to be able to tell Lance before a race how he would finish. He scoffed at me at first, but later he came to believe me. I could just sense what would happen." Then there is a tremor as she adds quietly: "There are times when you don't want to know what will happen."

Like Lance, Jill is a person of extraordinary intelligence (a rare 162 IQ as a student at UCLA) and curiosity. She is a practicing expert in such diverse fields as marine life and jewelry.

"I went to a gemmology school," she says, "because I wanted to know about jewelry. Now my friends call me 'loupe eye'—you know, after the glass a jeweler wears in his eye. When one of our girl friends gets a new gem, I'm nominated to scrutinize it. I'll come back and whisper: 'A lovely sapphire, all right. Probably a Borneo stone. But the best come from Ceylon, you know.'"

JILL HAS A CARBORUNDUM wheel at home and grinds her own semiprecious stones. In a FAMILY WEEKLY interview, she wore a turtle-shaped breast pin glittering with diamond chips, a square-cut blue sapphire ring, and a double strand of matched pearls. "Just something for the afternoon," she explained.

Jill's ire rises at the suggestion that her rich husband bought her art and gems. She points out that her father is a well-to-do retired restaurant owner; that she herself has been gainfully employed since she was six years old; and that at 21 she came into a packet of government bonds which she "promptly blew for things I like." Nowadays most of her collections are in vaults, while Jill lives in a furnished Los Angeles apartment.

No matter how she resolves her rift with Lance Reventlow, Jill will harbor no bitterness toward matrimony. "I certainly wouldn't want the life of a bachelor girl," she says. "I like belonging to one man, and I like one man to belong to me."

She states this with the same self-assurance she uses in discussing her career and very likely will meet personal challenges with a resoluteness and intelligence that has skyrocketed her as a film comedienne.

NEW COMMERCIAL ART TALENT NEEDED IN THIS AREA

Talent appraisal given free by Art Instruction Schools

In every branch of commercial art today—advertising, magazine illustrating, cartooning, greeting card design and many others—there is opportunity for both men and women.

If either a part-time or a full-time career in art appeals to you, find out now if you have talent worth professional training.

An appraisal of your talent will be given you without charge by Art Instruction Schools, and without obligating you in any way.

All you need do is take the art talent test the school uses to screen prospective students for its home study course in commercial art. You take the test at home, then return it to the school. Experienced commercial artists review your test and tell you, frankly, whether your talent could be developed to the professional level required for an art career.

For forty-nine years, this school has been discovering and developing talent. More artists practicing today have learned from Art Instruction Schools than from any other art school anywhere. Step-by-step lesson assignments are furnished. Also illustrated art textbooks. These demonstrate the techniques of some of America's best known artists including John Clymer, Post cover illustrator, and Charles M. Schulz, creator of the widely syndicated cartoon strip "Peanuts".

Nectarine Suki-yaki

- 2 lbs. boneless sirloin steak, cut 1½ in. thick, sliced 1/16 in. thick, and cut into about 2½-in. pieces
  - 2 large onions, cut in thin wedges
  - 8 green onions (including tops), cut in 2-in. pieces
  - 5 oz. fresh mushrooms, sliced lengthwise through caps and stems
  - 1 5-oz. can bamboo shoots, drained and sliced
  - 2 cups unpared sliced fresh nectarines
  - 1 tablespoon fat
  - ½ cup soy sauce
  - ½ cup canned condensed beef broth
  - 2 tablespoons sugar
1. Arrange the thin pieces of meat and vegetables artistically on a large platter. Prepare nectarines and set aside.
  2. Heat fat in a large, heavy skillet on a hibachi. Add meat and brown quickly over high heat; remove and set aside.
  3. Arrange reserved ingredients in mounds in skillet; top with the beef. Pour a mixture of the remaining ingredients over all. Simmer 3 to 5 min., or until onions are just tender.
  4. Serve immediately over hot fluffy rice.

6 to 8 servings

Jellied Consommé Madrilène

- 3 cups tomato juice
  - 1 cup chicken broth (dissolve 2 chicken bouillon cubes in 1 cup hot water)
  - ½ cup chopped green pepper
  - 1 teaspoon sugar
  - ½ cup cold water
  - 2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
  - 2 teaspoons lemon juice
  - 2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters
1. Blend together in a saucepan the tomato juice, chicken broth, green pepper, and sugar. Cover the saucepan and simmer 6 to 8 min., or until green pepper is tender.
  2. Meanwhile, soften the unflavored gelatin in the cold water in a bowl.
  3. Strain tomato juice mixture into bowl with gelatin and stir until dissolved. Blend in the lemon juice and aromatic bitters. Cool. Cover and chill until firm, about 5 hrs.
  4. Just before serving, stir mixture lightly with a fork. Spoon into chilled bowls. Garnish servings with notched slices of lemon, if desired.

4 to 6 servings

Crunchy Sesame Seed Dressing

- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
  - ¼ cup finely diced pared cucumber
  - 2 tablespoons minced onion
  - 1 cup dairy sour cream
  - ½ cup mayonnaise
  - 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
  - 1 tablespoon sugar
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - Few grains black pepper
  - 1 clove garlic, crushed in a garlic press or minced
  - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
  - ½ cup sesame seed
  - ¼ cup (1 oz.) grated Parmesan cheese
1. Mix the green pepper, cucumber, and onion together; drain if necessary. Blend the next seven ingredients together; add to vegetables and mix well. Chill thoroughly.
  2. Meanwhile, heat butter or margarine in a skillet. Add sesame seed and stir constantly until lightly browned. Remove from heat; add the grated Parmesan cheese and toss until well blended. Cool.
  3. Serve the chilled dressing on chilled mixed salad greens. Sprinkle the sesame seed topping generously over the dressing.

2 cups salad dressing

Case of the Gold Coast Burglar

The loot was worth more than a quarter of a million dollars—yet it was one small, almost valueless, item that led police to the thief

By WILLIAM T. BRANNON

THE LIST of the phantom burglar's victims read like a page from the Chicago Social Register.

Each victim lived in a luxurious apartment in a tall building on Chicago's Gold Coast. Loot—which totaled more than a quarter of a million dollars—included expensive furs, jewelry, and cash. In every case, the articles had disappeared during the day when two or more servants were at work in the apartments. And each theft had been from a master bedroom. Yet no servant had heard anything unusual.

"That's easy to understand," said Capt. Maurice Higgins. "All the apartments are thickly carpeted. The pile is so deep that you can walk around in the same room with someone else and not be heard. The servants say that they saw no stranger and didn't know anything was going on."

The servants were quietly checked. Each had been with the family many years and was regarded as trustworthy. The police considered the possibility of collusion with the thief but then ruled this out. The burglar would have had to be in league with at least two dozen servants in different homes.

Until the detectives had spent days watching the big apartment buildings, they hadn't understood why a man carrying a load of furs hadn't been noticed. In the late afternoon, servants poured out of the buildings, most of them carrying parcels. During the day, there were dozens of men making pickups and deliveries from trucks.

Realizing that the thief might be wearing a uniform and posing as a delivery man, detectives checked every one for days. On one day, while they queried every driver who stopped in the area, the thief quietly struck again.

Capt. Higgins saturated the area with policemen, and for a few days the thefts stopped. He withdrew the uniformed officers, and the burglar struck again. Plainclothes detectives had been near the scene, but they hadn't spotted the burglar.

"We've missed something," said Capt. Higgins. He studied the files for hours, then called in the detectives. "Maybe this is a woman. Go back and ask the servants if they saw a woman they didn't know."

This produced results. Several servants told of encountering a nurse who, when spotted, always had the same story: "I'm taking care of a patient in the apartment upstairs. I guess I got mixed up coming in the back way and got in the wrong apartment. They all look alike from the rear."

Several servants who had found the woman entering different apartments gave the same description. They said the woman was of medium height, about 30 years old, and dressed in a nurse's uniform. Her hair was dark and luxuriant, done in a long bob, and parted on the right. Her face was round and full, and her features were attractive. She had long lashes and big brown eyes. She had a flashing smile that revealed even, white teeth.

"Memorize that description," Capt. Higgins ordered, "and try to find her."

Detectives haunted the buildings of the Gold Coast, but several more days passed before one of the detectives spotted her. The woman was arrested and identified herself as Mrs. Grace Hathaway, a practical nurse. She confessed taking furs, jewels, and other articles worth more than $300,000, most of which she had sold for only a fraction of their value.

IN HER WORK as a practical nurse, she had noticed that maids often left back doors open for tradesmen. She had found it easy enough to slip in on the thick carpeting, pilfer the master bedrooms, and walk out. On the few occasions when she had been detected by a servant, her story that she had wandered into the wrong apartment hadn't been challenged.

New York City police also wanted Mrs. Hathaway on burglary charges, and warrants were forwarded to Chicago. But she was sent to prison in Illinois late in 1957 and the New York charges had to wait.

Had it not been for the alertness of Capt. Higgins when he studied the reports, police might have continued to look for a man and Mrs. Hathaway could have moved on to another city. The case well could have gone into the unsolved files.

But when Capt. Higgins noted that one of the items taken was a half-filled bottle of perfume—which would have no cash value and would be of no use to a man—he knew then that the burglar was a woman.
